VIVA VILLA AT CAMERON

With Wallace Beery playing one of his first dramatic roles in several years, "Viva Villa!" comes to the screen at the Cameron Theatre Tuesday, July 17. Stone, Joseph Schildkrut, Phillip Cooper, Frank Puglia and Henry B. Walthall. "Viva Villa!" has been hailed as one of the greatest productions in screen history.

TREASURE

By L. J. Bowling
Gause, Texas

A Bachelor sat in his room one day
And counted the money he'd made;
He had been successful all his life
And at fifty could sit in the shade.

I also sit in my snug little home
And count the treasure I own;
I find my money one of the least,
And I don't sit here all alone.

For I have treasure to him unknown;
A wife and three children who care,
And then my grandchildren, bless their souls,
With more than his gold in their hair.

Daniels and Connally Confer on Treaty

Josephus Daniels, U. S. Ambassador to Mexico, and Senator Tom Connally of Texas are pictured here in Brownsville, Texas, when Connally recently met Daniels there to confer on the question of a treaty with Mexico on division of the waters of the Rio Grande. Their conference is expected to speed up the negotiation of the treaty, which will make possible the development of the Rio Grande Valley to its fullest extent. (Texas News Photos.)

BROTHER CAMERON MAN IS KILLED IN WRECK

Joe Tongate, 23, brother of James M. Tongate, manager for the Texas Cotton Co-operative Association in Cameron, was almost instantly killed near Brownwood on Thursday July 5 in a car wreck.

The car in which he was riding with two sisters, Mrs. Sid Adams and Mrs. W. B. Harris, careened from the road and was overturned. His head was crushed. The sisters escaped with minor injuries. It was believed he went to sleep at the wheel.

Joe Tongate was a senior student at Daniel Baker college. He was an athlete and honor student, a four letter man and captain of the Brownwood baseball team. His last game was with an all star aggregation on July 4 in Brownwood. He was a second baseman. He had been offered league contracts with Beaumont, Fort Worth and Oklahoma but had been discouraged by his brother, James M. Tongate until his education had been finished. He was captain elect of the baseball team for 1935 and a football star.

Funeral services were held Saturday July 7 with burial in the family cemetery at Brownwood. Services were held by Rev. McInnis, assisted by Dr. Guy Davis, president of the Daniel Baker college.

Deceased was a member of Company A, 142 Infantry Texas National Guard. A company of guardsmen gave him military honors and funeral with a firing squad. The flag was presented to the mother of the student. Coach Blair of the college was one of the chief mourners.

James M. Tongate of Cameron left immediately on receipt of the message on Thursday evening. He is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tongate and brothers and sisters.

Things
you may not know
... about your telephone

The little group of men who aided Alexander Graham Bell in the invention of the telephone is perpetuated today in many of the policies, and even in the form of organization of the telephone service. Bell himself, the research worker, has for example been succeeded by Bell Telephone Laboratories, whose scientists have contributed innumerable inventions and improvements to the telephone art.

Thomas A. Watson, who made the first telephones, was the forerunner of Western Electric Co., supply unit of the Bell System. From its shops the equipment and supplies needed by the 24 associated Bell companies are furnished at a cost which, as a proven fact, is lower than would be charged on the open market. As a telephone user, you profit indirectly, but definitely, by these savings.

Gardiner G. Hubbard, first business adviser of the infant telephone industry, has been replaced by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent organization of the Bell System. A. T. & T. staff experts develop more economical operating methods for the associated companies of the System. Its financing facilities make available, at a saving, funds for necessary additions to telephone lines and equipment.

FOR YOU . . . Good Service at Fair Cost

Not only were the beginnings of the present form of organization of the telephone service, with units for research, for manufacture, for business and financial guidance, to be found in this handful of pioneers . . . the source of many of the policies of the Bell System lies there as well.

Thus, for more than 50 years the savings from a specialized telephone organization have gone, not to swell profits, but to give good telephone service at a fair cost to the user.

This policy has been adopted because we feel that, from your standpoint as much as from our own, it is sound and workable. In an undertaking planned like the telephone service for the long pull, we believe that what is best for the telephone subscriber becomes in the end the course that will bring us the surer, more enduring success.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS DEFEAT BRYAN TEAM

Last Sunday the Knights of Columbus Parish team won its seventh straight game this season by defeating Bryan nine to 0. Although Paul Muth gave up only two hits, they both came in the fourth inning after an error, which proved to be Bryan's defeat. Ted Matula allowed three scattered hits but the word scattered means a whole lot in this instance.

In the fourth inning rally Shorty Matula got on Frank Stratta's error, Ted Matula singled sending him to third, and E. Michalka doubled scoring both runners. Ernest was pushed to third as Tony Moraw grounded out, short to first and scored on Paul Michalka's roller to first base.

Herman Krenek lead off for Bryan, started the first inning as one of those "we haven't got in town yet" affairs for the K. of C.'s with a long double over center field but his mates failed to contribute anything further to their cause and Herman died on third. Paul Muth and Yeager singled in the sixth and seventh innings but were stepped on third base.

A. and M. Man Makes Major Discovery

A discovery that may prove of major medical importance has been effected by Fred Hale of Texas A. and M. college, College Station, Texas. Working with hogs, Hale finds that deficiencies in Vitamin A in the diet of the mother causes eye defects, rather than heredity, as was previously thought. Pictured above is a pig born without eyeballs after the mother sow was fed a ration devoid of Vitamin A. Thirty-five pigs from three litters have thus far been produced under these conditions. All showed eye defects and also the absence of one or both kidneys in some instances. This discovery may have an important bearing on human prenatal care. (Texas News Photos.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Charles E. Dunn
GOD CARES FOR ELIJAH
Lesson for July 15th
1 Kings 17 and 18
Golden Text: Matthew 6:32

Elijah is the most individual and interesting of the early prophets. A rugged, desert figure of flaming zeal, who stood uncompromisingly for the primitive convictions of the fathers, he hurled defiant thunderbolts at all who departed from this simple, pioneer faith. He was peculiarly strong both in impulsiveness and in tenacity. The first part of the lesson reveals this strength. There we see him as the prophet of both judgment and mercy.

Yet Elijah was weak, too, as the latter part of our lesson makes clear. Behold him sitting under a juniper-tree in the wilderness asking the Lord to take his life! What was the matter with him?

In the first place he was tired. After the fearful strain of the contest with the prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel he was completely exhausted. Now physical weariness often produces despondency.

Then, in the second place, he felt all alone, as though no one were sympathetic with him. "I, even I only, am left." We know the meaning of this, do we not? Loneliness and homesickness are very common experiences.

Moreover, Elijah was idle. He had nothing new to occupy his attention and save him from introspection. Few become more gloomy or rebellious than the unemployed.

We have here a very personal problem. Elijah's worst foe was himself. He had won a spectacular victory, but now he sulks like a spoiled child. One is reminded of that searching declaration of Shakespeare's Cassius: "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves." And it was D. L. Moody, famous evangelist, who said that he had had more trouble with himself than with any other man he had ever met.

The fact is that we are at war with ourselves. But God can deliver us from this inner conflict even as he saved Elijah.

National Observatory Tower to Be Built at San Marcos

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Plans for the erection of a gigantic 120-ft. watch tower and observation post, to be set up in San Marcos, are being rushed here by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

The tower will serve as a laboratory for the study of the earth's curvature and general topographical layout.

The plans were laid today before a group of the nation's leading scientists prior to erection of a tower in Washington. Later, a vast network will be projected across the nation, with San Marcos a focal unit.

Dr. William Bowie, chief of the Bureau of Geodesy, attended the demonstration today and was highly impressed with it.

The San Marcos tower will look like a giant triangular cornucopia. There will in reality be two towers, one inside the other.

A scientist will be perched on the outside tower studying the delicate instrument set on the top of the inside tower. The San Marcos tower will be built after experiments here are successfully completed, it was said in Washington today.

Dr. Bowie, "Who's Who" scientist, said that the nation planned a vast network of these towers. Communi-

Lady Says She Took CARDUI for Cramps; Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. popular opinion that it costs more to dress a girl for school than to stay at home. The non-school girls spent an average of $43.93 or over $6.00 more than the high school girl. Their costs were $9.08 for outergarments; $16.55 for footwear; $4.10 for undergarments, $12.38 for dresses and $1.98 for miscellaneous items.

Explaining the high footwear costs the girls point out that this article has to be purchased, whereas many other items of wear can be and are made by and for the girls. Many old garments are remodeled.—Review.

The whole Country HAS GONE G-3

We've never seen the equal of it—the way car owners have flocked in, looked, listened, bought new G-3's these last ten weeks—and it's the same everywhere we hear. What's more, people who got G-3's months before the public announcement, report it's better than claimed! They cite mileage records to prove they're getting better than the 43% more non-skid mileage averaged by Goodyear's test fleet. Buy no tires until you let us show you this wonderful new Goodyear All-Weather which gives so much more safety and service without costing you a cent extra!

MARVELOUS NEW

"G-3"

GOODYEAR ALL-WEATHER

Look What You Get—No Extra Cost: 43% More Miles of real non-skid safety... Flatter Wider Tread... More Center Traction (16% more non-skid blocks)... Heavier Tougher Tread (average of 2 lbs. more rubber)... Supertwist Cord Body (supports heavier tread safely).

Your reference to 43% more tread mileage should be increased... will run closer to 55%—Ohio

21,000 miles—non-skid still appears on tread.—Fla.

Have driven 25,850 miles and you can hardly see they've been used.—Minn.

27,900 miles since last fall—treads show very little wear.—Vt.

Approximately 32,000 miles—still some traction left.—W. Va.

Tremendous welcome—huge sales—follow announcement of sensational new Goodyear tire—keeps us and factory on jump—Users say "43% more non-skid mileage" understates it.

1,000,000th Ford V-8 Goes to World's Fair

Two world records were broken when the one-millionth Ford V-8 car came off the assembly line at the great Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company, under the watchful eye of Henry Ford. One was a record production of 8-cylinder cars, the Ford total surpassing that of the balance of the industry both here and abroad. Ford also holds the daily 8-cylinder production record with a daily total of 4,651 V-8 cars. When the one-millionth Ford V-8 was completed, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company drove it off the line. The car then was rushed to Chicago where it was put on display with fitting ceremonies in the famous Ford Drama of Transportation at the Ford Exposition building as the representative of the 1934 Ford car in the dramatic cycle which pictures the development of transportation through the ages. The one-millionth Ford V-8 was approximately the 21,900,000th Ford ever built. The 22,000,000th will come off the line some time in July. In the picture above Edsel Ford is at the wheel and beside the car stand Henry Ford and P. E. Martin of the Ford organization.

Today's Live News For Fat Folks

3 Great Letters Read Them All

From all over the country—north—south—east—west come letters of praise for the world's safe and healthful enemy of fat—don't miss these 3 letters.

"I am using Kruschen Salts on advice of my doctor. Have used three bottles and lost 15 lbs., and gladly recommend it to all my friends." Mrs. G. W. Bryant, Foxboro, Mass., 1934.

"I am using your Kruschen Salts for constipation and reducing. Have taken 3 jars and have lost about 20 lbs. I can recommend it to be great." Miss A. J. Harber, Pineville, Ky., 1934.

"I have taken 3 bottles of Kruschen. I weighed 256, I reduced 56 lbs., and felt better each day, have got my 4th bottle." Ed Jordan, Levee, Ariz., 1934.

If you are proud of your double chin and bulging abdomen don't take Kruschen Salts. Ed Jordan made up his mind to take off 50 or more pounds of fat—and he did—Ed was sick and tired of lugging it around with him—persistence won for Ed as it will for any fat man.

A half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—get Kruschen at any drugstore.

WHAT the New Low Light Rates Mean to THESE CUSTOMERS

MRS. BROWN ...

I have always wanted to use more electric service. I have wanted to light my home better and to own an electric refrigerator. These dreams can now come true, because of the new low light rates. Hot summer months will not be so miserable now, because fans can be run at such a low cost. How many times has an otherwise lovely dinner been spoiled by a miserably hot dining room? An electric fan will answer this problem.

MRS. SMITH ...

Additional service at our house will cost us only 3 cents a kilowatt hour. We now have an electric refrigerator ... and my! what a pleasure it is. We will now be using the electric cooker, toaster and other appliances more than ever before. And I will not have to follow Jim and the children around the house to see that they turn off the lights because additional lighting will cost very little.

MRS. JONES ...

We live in a small house and use very little electricity and the new optional electric light rate will save us money. There are only two in our family. We have not been keeping house very long and conditions have been such that we could not afford to buy any of the lovely household appliances. This new rate will mean a nice saving to us. The saving is immediate because the next light bill will be figured on the new rates.

QUESTION: What are the advantages of the new light rates to the housewife?

ANSWER: They lower the cost of the service she has been accustomed to using.

QUESTION: Are there any other advantages?

ANSWER: Yes. Every housewife wants to use more electricity. Electrical appliances give her more comfort and pleasure than any other appliances. The "6, 5, 3 and 2 cent" electric rate now permits her to use these appliances more because the additional energy comes at a lower rate. Housewives who have already learned to make the best use of electric service are extremely enthusiastic over the new low steps of 3 cents and 2 cents per kilowatt hour. They can now use double their regular amount of electricity at a small additional cost.

ed to measure the land by measuring angles as we were instructed a few weeks ago. Now committeemen are advised to use a 100 foot piece of No. 14 wire or chain, and a 25 or 50 foot cloth tape to measure fractions of a wire length. In addition to the 100 foot wire and tape mentioned above, the committeemen should also have 11 wire stakes to help keep count of the wire lengths per side. If any of the present committeemen cannot measure land or do not want to measure land, we are to get some one that can and will. The rate of pay is $5.00 per day, less the Government discount of 5 per cent.

The farmer is required to help the committeemen measure the acres of growing cotton. If they find that the farmer has more cotton than the contract calls for, the cotton acres in excess should be measured off by the committeemen, instructing the producer that this cotton will have to be plowed up, otherwise his contract will be cancelled. Tell the farmer not to plow up the cotton until the committeemen's measurements and figures have been checked in the office. A card will then be mailed him by the office supervisor advising him of the number of acres which are to be plowed up.

If the farmer has less acres than the contract calls for, that is O. K., so far as the Government is concerned. Unless instructed differently, it will not be necessary to measure the rented acres unless the committeeman thinks that the farmer does not have enough land not in cotton to fulfill his contract requirements for rented acres. To illustrate, if the farmer has 100 acres in cotton and his contract calls for 60 acres of cotton and 40 acres rented to the Government. After you have measured the 60 acres, if you have a doubt about there being 40 acres left, you

Delphya Scott and Friends Explore In Cavern at Burnett

Miss Delphya Scott, with friends, visited Burnett Sunday and the Loughorn Cavern. The cavern is spoken of as the show place of Texas; has been explored eight miles distance from entrance. A number of openings are in the cavern underneath, and yet to be explored.

Many new attractions are being discovered weekly. The work is being done largely by a unit of the C. W. A. One of the most attractive rooms is the "crystal room" where a beautiful Texas Star has been built and colored lights display the perfect crystals in the room.

There are few difficult places to mount or descend, as the walks are well arranged. Beautifully formed stalagmites and stalactites are in the different rooms that have been explored. Evidences of the finds prove that the place had been formerly inhabited by Indians and the outlaws in modern times.

A very attractive entrance has been built with places to rest. A large dance floor is one of the inside attractions near the entrance of the cave.

During the summer months it is proving a very popular resort as the temperature stands as low as 62 inside, and is reported to hold about the same temperature the year around.

had better measure and make sure.

We trust that the contract signers will co-operate with the local committeemen in measuring and signing the certificates of compliance. Forms in order to get this work done just as soon as possible and to have everything ready for the second rental payment about September.

Yours very truly,
Geo. Banzhaf, County Agent,
Milam County, Texas.

Texas Drouth Status at End of June

This map shows the 93 Texas counties which are now getting Federal drouth relief. The first group of counties to get Federal relief totaled 56, and 37 more were added on June 19. Continuation of the dry weather will probably result in more being added each week. It is significant to note that the drouth is most severe in West Texas, where farmers and ranchers are better able to withstand dry weather, and as a result, Texas is not suffering as much from the drouth as other states. An Old Confederate Talks of Wartime

By CAPTAIN GEO. W. STILL Palestine, Texas.

As Told to DAN STORM

2107 Neches St., Austin, Texas.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Home Color Print Co.)

CAPTAIN George W. Still of Palestine, Anderson county, Texas, age 93, is one of the oldest (if not the oldest) living Confederate veterans in East Texas.

He left Alabama soon after the war ended between the States, settling in Anderson county, where he has resided 68 years, with the exception of 12 years in the old Confederate Home at Austin.

At the age of 18 years Still joined the Confederacy, enlisting in the 9th Alabama Infantry. He served four years in the army and took part in the battles of Chickamauga, Spanish Fort, New Hope Church, Franklin, Resaca Georgia and Shiloh.

"At the battle of Resaca Georgia," said Captain Still, "the Confederates kept three lines charging. The first line would charge a short distance and fall flat on the ground. Then the second line would charge over the first line, advancing on farther, and also lie down. Then the third line would advance, all three lines continuing to advance, alternately. While I was down on the ground a bullet came singing through the air and struck me on the head. I thought to myself, 'Well, I've stopped one, and I guess I'm on my way.' But you couldn't kill me. I was too tough."

Captain Still removed his hat and showed me a scar, about two inches long and quarter of an inch wide, high up on the side of his head. "If that bullet had struck a little lower it would have killed me; a little higher it would have missed. But glancing off—it just scalped me a little."

At the battle of Chickamauga Captain Still received a bullet in the leg, and at the Spanish Fort battle he was shot in the arm.

Shiloh a Fierce Battle

I asked the Captain which battle he considered the worse: "Shiloh," he said, unhesitatingly; then his voice softened. "We lost our General, Albert Sidney Johnston, or we would have won the Battle of Shiloh. But there is always an 'if' or an 'and.' That Shiloh was a terrible battle. We fought two days and two nights continuously. They had us outnumbered two to one. We won the attacks and outfought the Yanks, but just wore ourselves out, fighting, and we were always half starved."

"We made the initial attack in the morning, before dawn, running the Yanks away from their breakfast. I never, in all my life, heard as many bullets whistling or as many cannon booming. I shot away all my Remington rifle cartridges and had to fall back on an old musket. These muskets were tricky and dangerous to load. In loading, you had to ram home a charge of powder onto the cap, followed by the wadding, then the ball, and lastly another wadding. Sometimes, as you rammed home the last wad, the force would be too much for the cap, and the old musket would go off—bang!—accidentally, or purposely, as the case might be.

"We were winning, when General Albert Sidney Johnston fell. This was a bitter disappointment. We kept on fighting, however, but the loss of our beloved general hurt the Confederate's morale. Lee finally ordered us to fall back and assume the defensive.

"I didn't stop a single bullet in the Battle of Shiloh, but it was the fiercest battle I was ever in. Ten thousand men were killed and eight times that many wounded."

I asked Captain Still what he thought of the Yankee generals and privates. He said: "The Yankee soldiers were just as brave and efficient as Southern soldiers."

Money Inflation

There was money inflation in Civil War times, illustrated by the following story: "One time General Grant came up to a Southern lady's home and asked if she could fix up some dinner for himself and 14 of his officers," said Captain Still. "The lady said she would do the best she could. After the meal, Grant asked her would a dollar a person be enough to pay for the dinner. The lady said it would be plenty. Then Grant asked the lady if she would rather have Confederate money or Federal money. (He said afterward, in telling the story, he figured that the lady was a patriotic Southern woman and would have no use for Yankee money). The lady proudly said that she would accept Southern money, although she knew perfectly well that the Southern money, known as conscript, wasn't worth the paper it was printed on. Grant knew that she knew it, and also knew that she was just taking the Southern money out of pride. So he handed the lady $15.00 in Southern money, for which she thanked him, and then reached into his other pocket, counted out $15.00 in Federal money and gave it to her also. Now, that was mighty clever—about as clever as a man could be.

"Grant was a great general and a kindly man. No, he was not as great a general as Lee. Lee was one of the greatest military strategists and characters in history."

"I'll just finish you off and put you out of your misery," he told the wounded Southerner.

Southern Soldiers Suffered from Hunger

"I didn't mind fighting so much and the hardships of march, as the starvation. We were always starved. My brother says, when he was in prison in Illinois, that they were so short of food they ate dogs, cats, rats or anything else they could find. At Andersonville, Georgia, we almost starved ourselves to death dividing rations with 100,000 Yankee prisoners. The best square meal I ever ate during the four years of war was the time I shot a cow in the Cumberland mountains. For once we had a real feed of juicy steaks and rib roasts."

"Many times I have gone three days without a thing to eat. Even today I can go three days without a bite to eat."

I got used to hunger during the war. You can get used to anything.

"Now, the Southern armies were all right at fighting but just didn't have the food supplies, particularly so during the latter part of the war. Georgia was the best State to the Confederacy. One Georgia farmer gave us a cow, another a couple of hogs, another a dozen chickens. We paid for the stuff in Confederate money, which was about worthless. I paid $150 for a plug of tobacco, and with another $150 bought a hen from an old negro woman. She put it in the oven for me and let it burn. I never quite got over that."

Brothers Fought Brothers

"Brothers fought brothers. At Atlanta, in the ditches outside the city, were encamped two regiments of Kentuckians—one Northern and one Southern. One of my brothers was in the Northern regiment and another in the Southern regiment. The two armies were in a truce. My brother in the Northern army knew his brother in the Southern army was starving, so he got permission from the colonel to write a letter, inviting his brother to come over and eat a square meal off the Yanks. But the Southern brother refused the invitation, writing back: 'I couldn't bear to see you in a blue uniform.'"

"I well remember an incident at the battle of Chickamauga. A Southern soldier was sitting with his back against a tree trunk, badly wounded. A Yankee came rushing up. 'I'll just finish you off and put you out of your misery,' he told the wounded Southerner, raising his gun to shoot. But when the Southern soldier gave a Masonic signal, the Yankee dropped his gun, ran for water and medicine and saved the Southerner's life."

When I asked the captain how the negroes acted during the war between the North and the South, he replied: "The majority of negroes were very loyal to the Southern cause, and the older negroes who remained on the plantations worked hard, providing for and protecting the white women. I don't know how our Southern white women could have lived through the war without the help of negro men and women. Every old negro ex-slave should have a pension, but they're about all dead."

Old Slaves Devoted to Masters

My brother told me this story: An old slave was so devoted to his master that he went to war with him. The master was a high ranking officer. The old slave was always with him, holding his gun, caring for his horse, attending him devotedly. In one battle, the master fell from his horse, mortally wounded. The old slave went immediately to the aid of his master, ministering, sobbing and begging him to speak. When it came over the old negro that his 'Massa' would never speak again, never need his gun loaded, his horse cared for, or his wounds dressed, the white-haired old darkey, eyes flashing defiance, grabbed up his master's gun from the ground and went to shooting at the Yankees. When his ammunition were exhausted he ran out of the trenches on his old unsteady legs, brandished the gun and threatened to club to death every blue-coat on the enemy's ranks. Before anybody could drag him back, he fell dead from a sniper's bullet."

Captain Still was not present during the surrender of Lee at Appomattox courthouse, Virginia, but his brother was there, and gave him particulars of the surrender. "Lee and Grant joked like two boys," the captain said. "They had gone to school together in Virginia. Lee had 35,000 men and Grant 85,000 men when the two armies faced each other the morning of the surrender. That shows about how we were outnumbered all through the war. Grant let the Southern soldiers keep their horses, and to some who didn't have horses Grant gave them horses to ride home. My brother, Jeff, went to war afoot and came home riding a good horse."

"Had Lee so chosen he could have gone on and fought to the bitter end. He knew his men would stay with him, but it would have been futile. The Yanks had us outnumbered two and three to one, were better clothed and better fed. Also, untold suffering was being endured by Southern women and children. Therefore, Lee surrendered. It took a lot of moral courage and unselfishness to do so, which shows Lee was not only a great general but a great man—as kind as he was brave."

Will Rogers--An Authentic Biography

By BETTY STAPLES

P. O. Box 4052, Sta. A, Dallas, Texas.

WILL Rogers, internationally known humorist and movie actor, was born November, 4, 1879, in a ranch-house built before the Civil War by his father, on the banks of the Verdigris river, in the old Cherokee Nation of Indian Territory, not far from the present town of Claremore. Clem Vann Rogers, Will's father, was a Cherokee senator and judge, and later a member of the Oklahoma State Constitutional Convention. For many years a successful rancher, the elder Rogers was also a Claremore banker, with extensive real estate holdings.

Will's mother, formerly a Miss Schrimshire, was directly descended from the British nobility through the house of Ravenwood. She was an early graduate from the Cherokee National Female Seminary, at Tahlequah, and possessed rare intelligence and wit. It is from the mother that Will inherits his whimsical humor, while from the father he inherited business acumen and a lot about politics. It is no accident that Will probes to the core of political conditions; he was brought up in a political atmosphere.

The son of well-to-do parents, Will Rogers never knew poverty, despite widespread stories to the effect that he was a poor cowhand, who spent his youth riding the alkali range, returning to a lonely dugout at night. As a matter of fact, he grew up on one of the best-equipped ranches in Indian Territory, and did pretty much as he pleased. Will's gifted mother died when he was barely six years old, but fortunately his eldest sister, who became Mrs. J. T. McSpadden, was able to take the place of his mother. Will lived with the McSpaddens, on their ranch, seven miles from the present town of Chelsea, Oklahoma, during the first year he attended Drumgoole school, whose students were chiefly Cherokee full-bloods.

Not Over-Studious

Young Rogers was not over-studious, although teachers in the series of boarding-schools to which he was sent, until 17 years of age, rate him as being above the average in learning, genuinely gifted in music, amateur theatricals, and in English both written and spoken. He was also known to have a retentive memory for places, names and events; also a favorite with boy and girl associates, who found him friendly and always willing to regale them with droll talk. An expert rider and roper, he practiced ropethrowing at every possible opportunity.

Will, now 18 years old, was attending the Kemper Military Academy, at Boonville, Mo., but at once decided he had enough of formal education. About mid-term, in company with a classmate who was likewise adventurous-minded, Will fled to Texas, where he worked on a ranch until his father's indignation had time to cool off. When Mr. Rogers saw that his son was not trying to dodge work, he brought him home from Texas and set him up in the ranching business, making him a gift of the old homestead and a big drove of Herefords.

For five years Will ran his ranch well and thriftily. A sister kept house for him at first; after her marriage Will hired a man for housekeeper. At picnics and dances for miles around he was in great demand, riding to the revels in jaunty attire, which included white Stetson hat, flowing bow tie, and the best boots that money could buy. Fourth of Julys were gala occasions, devoted mainly to meets of fancy roping and riding, at which young Rogers was proficient and usually carried off the honors. But this manner of life, active though it be, could not hold his attention for long.

Ships Cattle to New York

Many large-scale stockmen of the old Indian Territory sold their cattle in St. Louis, 400 miles away; but Will announced he was going to try the New York market. It will never be known whether he yearned for higher cattle prices or more adventure. At any rate, he got both, for he went with a shipment of cattle to New York, taking along a cousin for company, named Dick Trent.

After that New York trip Will Rogers was bitten by the travel-bug. Against his father's advice he sold the remainder of his cattle for what they would bring, and got forth in the early spring of 1902 to see foreign lands. Always generous and fond of companionship, Will took another part-Cherokee boy, named Dick Paris, along with him, paying all expenses. South America was their goal, and they went to New Orleans with intention of sailing from that port, but were told they had to go to New York and sail by way of England. They spent a short time in the British Isles before arriving in South America, where they looked around for jobs on some of the big cattle ranches. Will was more successful at job hunting than Dick Paris, picking up quite a bit of knowledge about South American ranches, though he preferred the Indian Territory ranch system, all things considered. After a while Dick developed a bad case of homesickness and Will had to spend almost the last of his money in sending him home. Regretful comments went up around Claremore when Will did not return with Dick, but Will was bound for South Africa.

First Start in Show Business

He sailed the 4,500 miles from Buenos Aires to Cape Town, Africa, on a cattle boat, acting as valet to a number of cattle. The voyage lasted several weeks and was not so pleasant. Will reached Africa in September, and at once went to work on a stock farm in Natal. Within a month his path crossed that of a veteran cowpuncher and showman, Texas Jack, who had brought a combination circus and Wild West show to South Africa, and was knocking audiences cold with his troupe of some thirty-five performers (only seven of whom were from the United States) and his two dozen bucking broncos.

It is superfluous to add that in just no time Will Rogers had joined up with Texas Jack's show. He was billed as the "Cherokee Kid," and straightway proved his ability to out-ride, out-rope, out-act, and out-yell all others. This predilection for the show business, rapidly shaped Will's destiny. He traveled with the show to New Zealand, Madagascar, and Australia, experiencing varied adventures and meeting all kinds of folk. In 1904 he returned to the United States and was with Mulhall's show on the Pike at the St. Louis Exposition. Mulhall took Rogers on to New York, after the exposition closed, and they showed in Madison Square Garden. Just at this time destiny again took a hand.

One day a big longhorn steer, crazed by fear, plunged out of the Madison Square arena, over the rail, into the boxes thronged with spectators. Pandemonium reigned. Quick as a flash Will whipped out his lariat and roped the steer. In a twinkling he had the brute down, tied hand and foot. His fast thinking and skill undoubtedly saved several lives. New York newspapers blazed out with front page headlines, extolling this roping feat, the city applauded, and Will Rogers henceforth became an idol.

From there on it was but a step to vaudeville. He did tricks with and without a horse, fancy roping, etc. He spoke a few words to introduce his stunts, and the few words invariably brought laughter from the audience. His drollery was infectious.

Makes Good With Ziegfeld

On a night at Ziegfeld's Follies, one of the regular acts was held up by some accident. It looked as if there would be a gap in the program—an embarrassing situation. The manager, in desperation, said to Rogers: "Get out there on that stage and do tricks—talk to 'em—anything, but hold the crowd!"

WARNING AGAINST INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Infantile paralysis can be expected to occur more frequently during the next three or four months because the disease is more frequent during hot months, warns the Texas Board of Health. The first symptoms usually are vomiting, headache, fever, stiffness of the neck, pain in the legs, irritability and drowsiness. In more severe cases the germ penetrates the nervous system, resulting in paralysis of nerves controlling one or more groups of muscles. Infection spreads from person to person from droplets that accompany coughing and sneezing. Early recognition of the disease and diagnosis are essential. When symptoms are first noticed, a physician should be called at once.

CURRENT COMMENT

Little Red Cradles

Do you ever hear of Oliver Lafayette Dorman? Well, he is worth hearing about. When he died the other day, at the age of 94, he was the oldest resident of Hickory county, Missouri. His wife died twelve years ago and left him a lonely old man. For weeks he grieved and lamented that he had not died when his wife died. His work was done, he said. There was no further use of living. Life was over for him, nothing to do, no use to any one. But one day a change came over Dorman. His little granddaughter came to him with her dolly and said: "Grandpa, won't you make a little red cradle for my dolly?" Light came into the old man's eyes. Were it possible that he could be of service to any one? He was apt with his saw and knife, in 24 hours had turned out a doll cradle and was painting it red. There were other grandchildren—twenty-one of them girls. They all wanted red cradles for their dollies. The old man got busy. He had a job and it was a job worth having—making little girls happy. The little playmates of his grandchildren wanted little red doll baby cradles. Oh, but he had a big job! And these told others and after a while little girls in the adjoining counties and States all wanted red doll baby cradles. No more moping or repining on the old man's part as he continued to fill "orders" from all over the nation, and he made no charge for the red cradles; they were sent to recipients with his compliments. Mr. Dorman kept an account in a small ledger of all the cradles he had made and where they went. So when death came and friends had lain him away in the country churchyard, they opened the small ledger and counted 2,351 red cradles his hands had made for little children in 41 States. The work of Oliver Lafayette Dorman points a moral. Life for him was not over at the age of 82—not when his old hands could make 2,351 little girls happy. Life had just begun.

An Honorable Young Man

A merchant in my home town recently told me this incident: "A good customer of my store for many years died suddenly. After the customer's death his wife and her two small boys tried to carry on the farm, but that year the boll weevils were bad (I believe it was in 1909) and they made a complete crop failure. Then the mother of the two boys died the following winter. It seemed the older boy kept trading with me and I had sold him a few goods on credit, but I had forgotten the amount and failed to transfer the item when I opened up a new set of books. All I could remember was that the older boy had gone out west soon after his mother died. One morning a few weeks ago he came to me in my office and said: 'It's been a long time since I made the debt, but this is the first time I have saved enough to pay it. Please see how much I owe you!' I looked into the ledger, but could not find his name and told him he was mistaken; that he didn't owe me anything. He said: 'Look again; I am sure I owe you.' I looked carefully again and once more told him he owed me nothing. He thanked me and started toward the door. As he got near the door he hesitated, turned and walked briskly back to me. Handing me a $20 bill he said: 'You came near making a thief out of me. I don't care what your books show I owe you $14.35. I have always had the debt on my mind, thinking how glad I would be to pay it, for the goods you sold me were for my mother. Please take your money and let me discharge the obligation.'"

The merchant continued: "After deducting the $14.35 from the $20 bill and returning the change to the young man, I talked at length with him and learned he was now herding cattle on a ranch in New Mexico. Since that day my faith in the honesty of poor humanity has been greatly strengthened."

A Striking Contrast

I notice where a mail carrier in one of the larger Texas cities was convicted of abstracting a few dollars from letters it was his duty to deliver. The amount he stole was pitifully small compared with what it eventually cost him. He was within a few months of the time he would be retired on a government pension of $100 a month for life. For thirty-three years he had carried the mail and, presumably during all that time had been honest, for it is impossible for a man in the mail service to steal government money for any length of time with detection. Yet, for taking a few dollars in a moment of weakness that didn't belong to him this man must serve a term in prison, lose his job and his pension, forfeit his good name, disgrace his family and come to an ignoble end.

As a lad in Tennessee there was a man pointed out to me who was the embodiment of honesty. When the Civil War came on he attended a ferry on the Tennessee river. The arrangement between him and the owner of the ferry was that all receipts were to be divided equally. The owner joined the Federal army in Kentucky. The ferryman one month later joined the Confederate army. When the ferryman left home he put the coins that belonged to the owner in a little bag and suspended it around his neck. He carried it thus for nearly three years. During those years he was often hungry, often ragged, but it never occurred to him that he should appease his hunger by spending this money that didn't belong to him. He walked home from Appomattox tired, sick, worn and hungry. He did not go home to his little lonely shack on the river until he had gone to the ferry owner's home first, untied that little sack from around his neck and placed the coins in the owner's hands. When asked why he had not spent it during times of great need he replied simply: "It wasn't my money." The son of this humble ferryman is now president of a large bank—one that didn't close.

Here in This Country

If we were to read that in China, or Russia, or Mexico, a respected citizen had left secretly any of these countries so that members of his family would not be kidnaped and held for ransom, we might not be surprised. But E. L. Cord, a respected citizen of the United States, is now in England with his family and expects to remain there. Four different attempts were made to kidnap members of his family before Mr. Cord decided to leave his home in Beverly Hills, California, and go to a country where he would not have the fear, night and day, that some of his loved ones would be spirited away. It's disgraceful to our country that such things can be. Attorney General Cummings says a careful check up leads him to believe that there are no less than 3000 cases of kidnaping in this country every year. The police of different cities report that not one case in ten of kidnaping is ever brought to light. The family of the kidnaped one pays off and, because of gangster threats, makes no report. When will this deplorable situation change? Every year it gets worse. Authorities in Chicago estimate that at least 300 persons are kidnaped there every year. We are probably the most lawless nation on earth. Mr. Cord says his family, in England, go wherever they please and have no fear of kidnapers.

Don't Shoot an English "Bobby"

A few weeks ago a policeman in London (they call them "Bobbies" over there) received a wound in the arm from the shot of a burglar he discovered looting a home. He was the first Bobby in ten years who had met with such violence. It was supposed to be so good a piece of news that three different news agencies cabled it to this country. The entire police and detective forces of London were called into action to find the culprit. In 24 hours he was captured. Knowing the English courts would met out to him a death penalty, the burglar killed himself. In this country never a week goes by that some officer is not killed while attempting to enforce the law. Three hundred and forty-two officers of the Federal government have been slain since 1920. How many State and municipal peace officers have been killed during the last 14 years we have no record, but their number is legion. And when their murderers are arrested, tricky lawyers resort to all kind of technicalities to save their worthless necks. If we put them in jail they get out, most of them, with wooden pistols, bribery of guard, or through sentimental juries either paroling and finding them not guilty, or by the pardon route. One of the candidates for Governor of Texas has a splendid plank in his platform, that is, by statute we provide that no pardons shall be granted to convicts who are serving terms for crimes of violence.

A Missouri City Points the Way

St. Joseph, Missouri, has come to the conclusion we must all come to if we are ever to get over our present distressful condition. St. Joseph is no longer going to look to the Federal government to bring back prosperity. Its leading men have banded themselves together to do the job themselves. Looking around, they find there is plenty of work for all their unemployed and they are putting them to work. That's what we have got to do as communities and as individuals. Somehow we must get away from the "gimme" habit. The government cannot go on furnishing a living to what Mr. Hopkins says is 20,000,000 of our people. We all know the country is vastly better off than it was 14 months ago and Mr. Hopkins says the relief rolls increase every month. We are getting too much like the negro boy who was asked if he didn't want to make a quarter and who answered: "No sir, Ise got a quarter." Or like another negro man whom I heard make the following reply to a man who offered him two days work at good pay: "No, boss, Ise workin' fur de guv'ment two days a week at 30 cents an hour and Ise can git by on dat." Too many of us are content with "getting by." We must have a revival of personal pride and independence unless we want to have a nation of half paupers. I am director in our local Red Cross Chapter. A strong, healthy white man who owns 20 acres of good land approached me the other day and in all seriousness said: "What provisions is the Red Cross and the government taking to feed us next winter?" I offended him by asking what provisions he was making to feed himself and his family? His 20 acres were in weeds and he was making weekly trips to the relief office. There are a great many persons, who through no fault of their own, are up against hard problems. These must be helped, but as sure as the Lord made little apples we are drifting into a condition that our pioneer forefathers would have been ashamed even to contemplate.

I knew a widow whose husband, when he died, left her 82 acres of land and seven children. Her sister died and left her four more children. But on that little red clay East Texas farm she raised those eleven children, gave them plenty to eat, decent clothes and fair education. The government never helped her while she went through the hard times of the reconstruction period and met every obligation. Her children and her sister's children imbibed her ideas of thrift and independence and not one of them is on the relief rolls. But the other day I met the man who bought this same widow's farm after her death as he came out of the relief station with a ham under his arm, complaining that the government wouldn't furnish him gasoline.

Not Old at 51

Imagine, if you can, my surprise when I read in a daily newspaper that an "aged man," 51 years old, had met with an accident. Note the word, "aged." Why, the man was in his prime of life. Some little cub reporter didn't know what he was writing about. Youth and middle age seem to conjure up that when a man reaches the half century mark he is old. Young men in their vigor (or folly) dread the coming of years, dread the time when they shall have to carry age on their backs like the old man of the sea. But the elderly man himself usually knows nothing of the burdens to which his youth looks forward to with fear and trembling. I know old men (am one myself) who will testify that life beyond 60 is the best part of life. Young folks think there is hypocrisy in an old man declaring he "never felt better or was happier in his life." Yet these old men are telling the truth. They have learned the true philosophy of living. Strange as it may seem to youth, the fear of age often vanishes when age really comes. And with this feeling often goes the fear of death. After all is said, death itself is only another form of living. Wherefore, why worry all through the younger days lest ye grow old? Quit calling a man "aged" until he is at least 80. So say all we old men.

Twenty Jack-loads of Gold and Silver Coin

By JOE SAPPINGTON

522 Seewick Ave., Waco, Texas.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Home Color Print Co.)

SOMETIMES wonder why Frank Dobie, while collecting stories of lost mines and buried treasures for that most interesting book, "Coronado's Children," failed to include the 20 jack-loads of gold and silver coin buried somewhere on the banks of Cave Creek.

The legend of that fabulous wealth dates back to 1836 and has persistently withstood the acid test of time. Here-with is the story in a nutshell:

A caravan of Mexicans, returning to Mexico with 20 jacks or burros laden with gold and silver coin, were attacked by Indians while encamped on Cave Creek. Believing their life depended on a quick get away, the Mexicans buried the gold and silver in a secluded spot somewhere along the creek, but fate was against the Mexicans; they were overtaken by the Indians in less than ten miles from where the money was buried and all but one killed by the savages. This sole survivor finally made his way back to the land of the Montezumas, and kept his secret well, but later in a death-bed confession told Father Lopez about the buried treasure, and gave the good Father a map, showing its exact location.

"Quit shaving and let his hair grow long."

Map Turns Up at Cave Creek

A copy of this map turned up at Cave Creek and it wasn't long before dozens of copies were circulating in the hands of men who prowled for weeks up and down the creek digging for the hidden treasure. My father and old man Lee doubted the authenticity of the legend. They wanted to know why this sole survivor of the massacred Mexicans never came back to claim the treasure and why he waited until death was about to overtake him before revealing its whereabouts. Their reasoning was sound, but fell on deaf ears. Almost the entire male population of Cave Creek at one time or another continued to dig holes and poke around caves long after my father and old man Lee were dead.

No happiness can compare to the anticipation of finding money that has been long buried. The longer buried and more mythical the stories in connection therewith the greater the zeal of the treasure hunters. Some of the happiest moments in my life were when Bob Davis and I searched up and down Cave Creek in the dark hours of night with a mineral rod we had traded for in the hope of unearthing that legendary 20 jack-loads of buried gold and silver. Of course, we searched in vain, but the things we had planned to do with all that money when we found it surpasseth the most vivid imagination.

A Persistent Seeker

One of the dogged seekers for that elusive 20 jack-loads of gold and silver coin was old Wash Hawkins, who claimed to know the particular spot where the treasure was concealed. Old Wash, completely obsessed with the idea that he would sooner or later find the money, let his farm grow up in Johnson grass and weeds. So absorbed was he in the golden search, that he wandered about alone, talking and gesticulating to himself. He neglected his family, quit shaving and let his hair grow long. His wife and neighbors thought he had gone crazy. There was some talk of having him adjudged insane and committed to an asylum. Frank Hastings, a friend of old Wash, thought if a good practical joke could be played on him it might get his mind away from the buried treasure. Frank finally hit upon a plan for a practical joke that he thought would work.

One day he approached Wash in a confidential manner and asked him how he was getting along with his treasure digging.

"Frank," said Wash, enthusiastically, "I can hardly wait till night comes to start loadin' all that gold and silver. I'm right on top of the stuff, but it's goin' to take me a long time to haul it away, as I can only work at night."

"Are you working in that same hole you started last week?" Frank asked.

"Sure," said Wash, unsuspectingly.

"Well," Frank replied, "you had better be careful, for there is a bunch of Mexicans hanging around here claiming to be wood-choppers, but I believe they are spies, watching you while you dig for those hidden millions."

Practical Joke Works Well

The night was pitch dark and old man Wash, lantern by his side, had been digging alone but a few minutes when his pick struck something hard and unyielding. In feverish haste he seized a spade and soon had the thing uncovered. It was a box two feet square by three feet long, weighing about 200 pounds, and had Wash not been laboring under great excitement he could not have lifted the box out of the deep hole into his wagon. Everything went along all right until he started to drive home and then the "Mexican spies," (who were Frank Hastings and his bunch of practical jokers) took in after him, yelling and shooting blank cartridges. Old Wash whipped up the team into a dead run and finally outdistanced his pursuers, arriving home safely with the box that he was dead sure contained the long-sought treasure.

The heavy box Wash dugged up so laboriously from the banks of Cave Creek contained nothing but scrap iron, rocks and brick bats, and had been placed there by the practical jokers.

But the joke had the desired effect—it brought Wash Hawkins to a realization of his folly. He abandoned further efforts to recover the alleged long-buried treasure and went back industriously to working his farm.

TOO MUCH WORK HINDERS GARDENS

Many growers cultivate their gardens too often, it is said. Roots are broken by cultivating too deeply and too frequently, and thus the plants are hindered rather than helped. The main purpose of cultivation is to keep down weeds and conserve moisture. Proper preparation of the soil will destroy many weed seeds and loosen the soil for young roots. Shallow cultivation conserves moisture. If weeds are rooted out when small, tests show that deep cultivation is not needed.

WILL USE TOY CANNONS

Adj. Gen. Harry G. Bishop, chief of field artillery at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, has designed a miniature field piece whereby artillery target practice can be carried on the year round instead of once a year, and at a surprising low cost. The toy cannon will be operated by the same instrument used on the 75-millimeter field pieces, with the same traveling and elevating mechanisms, but the cost of firing a gun will be a few cents as compared with the $17 spent every time the 75-millimeter piece was fired. The miniature guns will supplement rather than supplant the limited training of the Second Division Artillery in firing the actual weapons.

INTERESTING FACTS ON FARM HOMES

A rural farm house survey recently completed in Texas, covering 57,891 farms in 56 counties, shows that one farm in four has water piped into the house, or has an inside pump; only one in seven has a bath tub or shower bath; four out of five farm homes have unsanitary toilets; one out of five homes is lacking screens.

OIL INDUSTRY ANNIVERSARY

It was 11 years ago last May that oil was discovered on land owned by the University of Texas, embracing 46,080 acres, in what is now the Big Lake field of Reagan county. Up to May 1, 1934, this area had produced 75,751,239 barrels of crude oil by two companies, the Big Lake Oil Company (Plymouth) and the Texon Oil and Land Company (Continental). The production comes from two strata, the first between 2,000 and 3,000 feet, and the second between 8,344 to 9,020 feet. Shallow wells number about 200, and the deeper ones 20. The discovery well continues to produce small quantities of oil by pumping. The university receives one-eighth royalty, that is, one barrel in every 8 that are produced. This revenue goes to the permanent fund, one-third of which is allocated to A. & M. College.

PREPARED FOR GANGSTERS

John Dillinger, et cetera, will not find things to their liking if they visit San Antonio and attempt a bank robbery or any other vicious crime. The police department has purchased four automobiles; each is equipped with a machine gun, sawed-off shot guns, tear gas bombs, gas masks and bullet-proof vests for the officers using the cars. The best marksmen on the force, chosen after a competitive shoot, have been assigned to emergency duty in operating the automobiles.

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER PLAN SPECIAL EDITION

The Victoria Advocate, founded in 1846, is the second oldest newspaper in Texas in point of continuous publication. To commemorate its 88th birthday, the editor and publisher are preparing a special number which will come off the press either late in June or early in July. A feature of the edition will be articles by firms that have been in business in Texas for 50 or more years.

STAMPEDE RECALLS PIONEER DAYS

An automobile and a truck containing 13 calves and five steers collided on a street near the courthouse in Fort Worth on June 12. A few minutes later the livestock were stampeding south on Calhoun street, while the auto driver, John W. Wright, died enroute to a hospital. The stampede reminded old-timers of early day scenes in the Panther City when cattle herds were driven along the unpaved streets to Northern markets. Police, assisted by civilians, finally rounded up the cattle in a blind alley, seven blocks from where the stampede started. Policeman May was bitten on the hand by a stubborn calf.

SMALLPOX WARNING

Parents who will have children entering school this fall are being advised to have them vaccinated during summer against smallpox. There were 854 cases of smallpox reported in Texas last year.

MOSQUITOES AND MALARIA

Texas State Department of Health reports many mosquitoes this year, with a proportionate increase of malaria cases. People in affected areas are advised to clean up their premises and, where possible, pour oil on standing water.

THIS COW NO SLACKER

D. S. Todd of Thrall owns a Jersey cow that has done her part to help increase the bovine population of the State. She is only five years old, but has given birth to six calves, one at two years old, twins at the age of 3, then the fourth a year later, followed by twins a second time.

MACHINE GUN LIMITS TARGET PRACTICE

Machine gun target practice for members of the San Angelo police department is limited, since it costs $2.50 to fire the gun one minute. The sub-machine gun was purchased to use against bank-robbers and other dangerous law-breakers.

LETTER DELAYED SEVEN YEARS IN DELIVERY

Attorney R. D. L. Killough of Vernon recently received a letter that was seven years and 13 days in reaching him after it had been mailed. The letter was postmarked, "Chicago, 7:30 p. m., May 10, 1927." There were no marks on the envelope to show where the letter had been all this time.

NEW HOMES FOR OVERTON

Citizens of Overton are carrying through a building program which calls for 50 residences to be erected during June, July and August. The project was launched by the Chamber of Commerce building committee. Overton has been in need of houses to handle the increase of population resulting from the location of oil wells and refineries within the city limits.

TRIUMPH FOR SURGERY

August Hill, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hill of Medina, will not lose the use of his left hand despite the fact that tendons of three fingers were severed by a wood saw. At a Kerrville hospital the severed tendons were sewed together by surgeons who say that young Hill will eventually have full use of his fingers and hand.

CLAIM WORLD'S BEST PISTOL SHOT

Roy Tate, special investigator at San Antonio, is given credit by his friends for holding the unofficial honor of being the best pistol shot in the world. In a practice meet recently with a .38 caliber he scored 289 out of a possible 300, five points better than the world's official record.

WILL TAKE MOTION PICTURES

George C. Nalle of Austin, son-in-law of Governor Miram A. Ferguson, is planning to accompany an expedition into the Big Bend country to take motion pictures of archaeological discoveries. The expedition will be under the direction of George C. Martin, president of the Southwest Archaeological Society, which seeks more basket-making material for the Witte Museum in San Antonio.

SHOOTS AN ANNOYING FLY

Fred Connerly, clerk of the Texas Supreme Court who died recently, was an expert rifle shot. He was exceptionally fond of hunting, and for more than 40 years used the same 30-30 rifle in shooting deer. It is said Mr. Connerly one day became annoyed at a fly buzzing about his head, and when the fly lit upon a box a few paces away he picked up a .22-calibre rifle and shot it dead.

AUTO REGISTRATIONS INCREASED

New passenger car registrations in Texas made another favorable showing during May, according to latest statistics available. Seventeen counties representing all major sections of the State, had a total of 5,599 registrations in May, 1934, against 5,429 in April, 1934, and 3,760 in May, 1933. During past years there has been a decline in sales from April to May. Total sales during the first five months of 1934 were 21,768 compared with 13,276 during the corresponding period last year.

GIRLS WARNED AGAINST FADS

The cigarette and cocktail habit is one of the worst enemies to a girl's complexion and beauty. Mrs. Erschel S. Record, declared recently while discussing "The Foundation of Beauty" before the girls' section of the farmers Short Course at A. & M. College. "Deep breathing is necessary," she added, "since it purifies the blood, speeds up circulation, soothes the nerves, prevents colds and helps make one immune to infection. A sigh indicates that the blood is starving for oxygen."

VACCINATE AGAINST TYPHOID

People on relief rolls in Wilbarger county must submit to vaccination against typhoid fever. No exemptions are acceptable. Having had the disease does not insure immunity.

MINISTER IS DOUBLY SURPRISED

Elder W. E. Moore, former minister of the Christian Church at Rising Star, now relief administrator in the CWA offices, recently married a couple for which service he received the surprisingly small fee of 50 cents, which the groom said was all the money he had. Examination of the coin later revealed it was counterfeit, but of high workmanship.

TEXAS CATTLE SENT TO BRAZIL

The Gill ranch at Whon, in Coleman county, shipped two registered polled Hereford bulls and two heifers to a ranch in the southern extremity of Brazil, where they will be used to improve native cattle. Their port of destination is just about as far below the equator as the Gill ranch is north of it. By steamer it will require about 30 days for the Herefords to reach their new home.

LAW KNOWN TO FEW PERSONS

There is a law in Texas, known to comparatively few, which provides that an insane person with means must pay for his or her care in a State institution. Under that law the State collects from $70,000 to $80,000. The charge for patients who can pay is $5 a week, yet some guardians of insane persons utilize every means to keep from paying this small amount, according to Major Wright, State Board of Control, who is entrusted with the job of determining whether patients can pay. Many persons take the position that as taxpayers they are entitled to get all they can from the State's free institutions.

REMARKABLE CHURCH RECORD

Two women recently worshipped in the Millerville Church of Christ in Erath county for the three thousand and sixteenth time. One of the women, Mrs. H. Miller, is 100 years old. The other, Mrs. A. Gieseke, is in her 90th year. Mrs. Miller is the oldest resident of the county, and was the mother of the late Louis Miller, novelist. The two women are the sole survivors of the 26 charter members of the church, where services have been held every Sunday for 58 years. The congregation was organized in June, 1876, and was the second of that denomination to be established in that section. The 26 charter members moved to the Millerville community as a colony from Williamson county. The group originally came to Texas from Bates county, Missouri.

TRADE WAR HELPS TEXAS

A trade war between Japan and Great Britain is proving profitable to Texas cotton farmers. Up to the first of July, according to the Houston Cotton Exchange, about 600,000 bales of cotton cleared Houston for Japan, as against a little more than 500,000 bales for all of last season. It is said the Japanese increased demand for cotton is for manufacturing textiles to sell to British colonies. Mills in Japan are working overtime filling orders.

BOY SCOUTS SPONSOR MUSEUM

Creation of a "junior" museum of pioneer relics as a department of the Midland county library has been launched by Miss Marguerite Hester, librarian, and Boy Scout officials, after approval of purchases by the commissioners court. Boy Scouts have set a 15-year program for creating the museum. While specimens of natural history and flora and fauna of West Texas will be placed in the museum, collections of pioneer day articles will be emphasized.

DEWBERRY PATCH IS PROFITABLE

A return of $125 per acre, despite a drouth and the fact that it was a sideline business, is the record of W. H. Tanneberger of the Fairview community, near Floresville, with his two-acre patch of dewberries. He operates a store, but between customers gathered a little more than 250 crates of berries, netting him $1 per crate. For 10 years Mr. Tanneberger has raised dewberries. One season he realized $500 from the two acres of berries.

TEACHERS ASKED TO QUIT

The Waco school board, as the result of recent agitation, has decided to replace married women teachers with those out of employment. The married women have received a letter from the board suggesting that those whose income above the salaries they receive as teachers are sufficient to support them, or who have husbands whose income will support both husband and wife, apply for a leave of absence. There are 98 married women teachers in the Waco schools.

BLACK MICA BEING MINED

Llano county, whose mineral deposits have long attracted mineralogists and prospectors, has produced sufficient evidence of a superior grade of black mica to cause the operation at Llano of a mine on the Edwin Birk property, and is planning to operate also on the E. C. Leifeste acreage, both in the western part of Llano county.

VALLEY CAR SHIPMENTS LARGE

More than 20,000 cars of citrus fruits and vegetables have been shipped by railroad and truck from the Rio Grande Valley so far this season. Almost 13,000 cars of vegetables and about 2,000 of citrus fruits went out by rail. More than 2,250 cars of fruit and over 3,000 cars of vegetables were handled by trucks. McAllen leads the valley in fruit and vegetable shipments.

RE-UNITED AFTER 52 YEARS

Tom Harrison of Breckenridge, and his sister, Mrs. Laura Harrison, were re-united after a separation of 52 years recently at O'Donnell, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Bean, daughter of Mrs. Harrison. The brother and sister were last together in Coleman county when Mr. Harrison went west a cowboy, later becoming a deputy sheriff with headquarters at Estacado. Mrs. Harrison is 83 and her brother 79.

PROBLEM FOR GAME WARDEN

Some time ago a large gray crane appeared at the home of Al Colbaugh, courthouse janitor at San Angelo, who also is a deputy State game warden. The crane soon became a household pet. In the yard was an artificial tank containing 40 fish. It was not long before the crane found the fish and ate all of them in one day. The limit for one day's catch of fish in Tom Green county is 25. Now, neighbors are wondering if Colbaugh is going to arrest the crane.

NEW AIR MAIL CONTRACT ROUTES

The above map shows the new air mail routes of American Airlines, flying a transcontinental route from "Coast to Coast, Canada to Mexico."

This company was the lowest bidder for carrying mail from Fort Worth, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, to St. Louis and Chicago. It has direct airline connections with 55 cities and will carry passengers along with the U. S. mails. The newest plane, the "Vultee," soon to be installed, will have a cruising speed of 215 miles per hour.

A CRACK SHOT

Mrs. S. A. Debnam, wife of the Martin-Midland county farm agent, must be a crack shot. She drew a bead with her "trusty" .22 rifle the other day at a rabbit and pulled the trigger. The bullet killed the rabbit and also killed a nearby rattlesnake. The snake was trying to capture bunny.

HIGH RECORD FOR 21-YEAR-OLD STUDENT

Richard Joseph Gonzales, 21 years old, of San Antonio, ranked highest among 23 recipients for the Ph. D. degree at the graduating exercises of University of Texas. Except in two instances he rated "A" in his scholastic work since his freshman year.

SERVANTS TRANSMIT MANY DISEASES

Dr. John W. Brown, State health officer, recently made the statement that servants in homes are responsible for transmitting many diseases. Persons of all races are employed as cooks, nurse maids, laundresses, etc. As such they come in intimate contact with the children and adults in the family. If these servants are harboring any communicable disease the employing family is very liable to contract it. The State health officials recommend that employers have family physicians examine their servants from time to time to eliminate any danger of contracting communicable diseases.

NEW WHEAT IS PRODUCTIVE

"Tenmark" wheat, a new product of the Kansas State experiment station at Manhattan, Kan., proved highly satisfactory to Ernest Schur of the Hinds community, near Vernon, in a test this spring. He reports harvesting 26 1/2 bushels per acre from 16 acres, a patch of black hull wheat in an adjacent patch only producing 16 bushels to the acre. The new product has a soft appearance, but affords all the milling qualities of hard wheat. The stems stand up better, making it possible to wait for the combine with greater safety, and the grain does not shatter.

OSTRICH ROAMS CATTLE RANGE

Some where in the Fort Davis country is a lone ostrich roaming the range and having a good time. Where it came from and to whom it belongs is a mystery. It skipped in from the cattle range recently, entered the barn of D. O. Medley, near Fort Davis, ate half a sack of feed and skipped out again. The nearest ostrich farm to Fort Davis is in California.

SIZE OF DALLAS PARK INCREASED

Through generosity of E. J. Kiest, president of Dallas city park board and publisher of the Dallas Times-Herald, the park named in his honor has been increased to 284 acres, making it the largest park in Dallas. Mr. Kiest made an additional gift of land recently in a desire to preserve the beauty of the park and to prevent commercial firms from erecting filling stations and cold drink stands within the park.

CAN SEGREGATE SEX OF DAY-OLD CHICKS

Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture announce they are able to segregate the sexes in day-old chicks, having perfected a method to teach the fundamentals of chick sexing in a few hours, using wax models. Poultrymen and commercial hatcheries are interested because it will enable them to offer for sale pullet chicks exclusively.

80-YEAR-OLD DOCTOR STILL ON THE JOB

Although more than 80 years old, Dr. W. R. Tennon, physician and surgeon of the Summerfield community, 14 miles south of Troup, continues to answer day and night calls, despite the weather, when his services are needed. He recently started his 56th year of service in that community. Dr. Tennon is the only surviving member of the Cherokee County Medical Corps of 1878.

LONGHORN CAVERN OPENED

The Longhorn Cavern near Burnet was formally opened the middle of June. It is in a State park. Pat M. Neff, former Governor, and Associate Justice Thomas B. Greenwood and William Pierson lauded D. E. Colp, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board for his unselfish service devoted to the development of Longhorn Cavern and other State parks. Mr. Colp, during the ceremonies, was presented with the Cornelius-Armory-Pugsley medal, awarded by the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society at Washington, D. C., for having inspired citizens of Texas to contribute sites for 72 parks, comprising approximately 258,405 acres, for the greatest achievement of any American citizen in park development in 1933. The presentation was by Judge Pierson.

LONG LOST REVOLVER RECOVERED

Thirty-seven years ago Luther Patterson, Hillsboro business man, who then lived on a farm two miles east of Hillsboro, lost a 45-Colt revolver. Recently it was found in the fork of a tree in the pasture of the same farm where Mr. Patterson had lived. It was still loaded. How it found a resting place in the tree is not known.

OLD BURIAL GROUND FOUND

A gopher was responsible for the recent finding of the burial ground of Col. Fannin's men, after two years had been spent in a fruitless search. J. De Cordova, in a book published in 1858, said that the grave of the men had been marked with a pile of rocks. For 50 years no attention was given the matter. When a gopher unearthed several charred bones in a once cultivated field across a ravine from old Fort La Bahia, near Goliad, J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology at the University of Texas, was called to make an excavation. The burial site was forgotten and lost track of through a misleading army order. It was two months after Colonel Fannin and his 330 men were captured by the Mexicans and burned to death, that Gen. Thomas J. Rusk, the new commander, was ordered to conduct a military funeral for Fannin and his men. The order read that the skeletons and bones be "collected in one place in front of the fort (La Bahia) and buried with all honors of war." It was this statement that led those searching for the site, for General Rusk ordered Jamor G. W. Poo to have "a minute gun fired from the fort commencing with the time the procession moves until it arrives at the grave." Thus it was deduced that the graves were within close proximity to the fort, but not directly in front of it.

The discovery of the burial site means much to Texas, particularly at this time, when the Centennial will honor those men whose graves have been found. A move is under way to build a road from the nearest highway to the site of the graves and later place a marker there with appropriate ceremonies.

BLASTING HIGHWAY THROUGH MOUNTAINS

By the first of the year it is expected the Mexican government will have the highway completed from Laredo to City of Mexico. Pushing to completion the vast job of cutting the road through mountains, the Mexicans are using more than 7,000 men on the project. It is hoped to have all the narrow strips in the mountain passes eliminated by December 1.

OLDEST OFFICEHOLDER IN TEXAS

Fred M. Nichols of Galveston, county tax assessor, who claims to be the oldest officeholder in Texas, will resign at the end of his current term of office. He is 82 years old, and will have completed 56 years in public office at the close of his present term. His first office was that of "hide inspector," which he began serving in 1878. In the early eighties he was elected "State and county tax assessor," and has served as assessor since that time with the exception of a two-year term as collector.

TEXAS ANGLERS ORGANIZE

During the annual session of the Texas division of the Izaak Walton League of America, at Brownwood, late in May, the Texas Anglers' Association was organized. It will hold annual tournaments for championship piscatorial honors. The temporary by-laws were changed to admit any outdoor organization in the State as a body to become fraternally affiliated with it. Resolutions were adopted urging the legislature to pass a law requiring any person over 17 years old to buy hunting and fishing licenses when hunting or angling anywhere except on their own land.

NEW RECORD ESTABLISHED FOR OIL DRILLING PERMITS

A record for oil well drilling permits was established during the week ending June 7 when they totaled 378, which brought the total for the six-week period up to about 1,800, equivalent to the number ordinarily granted in about three months. The large number for the week was due to a last minute rush to get in applications before stringent new rules on drilling went into effect. Heretofore the Texas Railroad Commission has allowed operators to drill equidistant offsets to adjacent wells without hearing. Under the new regime no well can be drilled on less than 10 acres without a special hearing at which the applicant must prove a property would be confiscated unless he is allowed to drill.

"NATIONAL TOMATO WEEK" CELEBRATED

One hundred years ago in June the tomato was recognized as a vegetable food. Prior to that time it was known as "Pomme d'Amour," a "love apple," pretty to look at but regarded as poisonous. Throughout the United States "National Tomato Week," June 8 to 9, was observed in various ways. At Jacksonville and Troup the event was elaborately celebrated with pageants, music and feasting.

Boston buys more Texas tomatoes than any other Eastern city. Last year it purchased about 400 carloads. East Texas expects to ship more than 4,500 cars of tomatoes this season, at a valuation of $2,500,000. The tomato acreage this year is estimated at 25,000, against 20,400 last season.

AID IS OFFERED PECAN GROWERS

In view of the unsatisfactory prices during the last three or four years, and the fact that Federal government, through AAA offers aid to industry and agriculture alike, J. E. McDonald, State Commissioner of Agriculture, offers the facilities of his department in acting as the connecting link between grower and government. It is necessary for the grower to express a desire to the government that such aid is needed. This is not a co-operative marketing movement except as regards surplus and supply over demand. Operations of the marketing agreement will be concerned mostly with surplus. The general plan does not interfere with pools, co-operative marketing or the retail marketing of pecans, but undertakes to stabilize the market, thereby securing a fair price for the nuts.

SCHOOL TEACHERS BEFRIENDED

State Senator George Purl has filed with the State Board of Education a protest against what he considers a proposed rule which would cause the suspension of all school teachers who have not a college degree. Senator Purl says: "As I understand it, the proposed regulations will adversely affect thousands of teachers who have, at no little sacrifice, especially prepared themselves for their particular lines of work, but have not done all of the required work for college degrees. It appears to me that those teachers are as well qualified as are many of those who have obtained a degree. Among these are some of the best qualified teachers in the State, teachers who, because of their interest in the work, have stayed on the job even at low salaries. In my opinion for them to be thrown out of their positions at this time would be a great loss to the schools and nothing short of a tragedy."

A LITTLE FUN Jokes to Make You Laugh

One of Reed's Retorts

When the late Tom Reed was Speaker of the House of Representatives, he was noted for sarcastic remarks which he made to members of the House and others.

One day one of the dullest and least able members of the House was making a speech in which he was defending his course in a certain matter.

"Mr. Speaker," he said, "I am like Henry Clay; I would rather be right than be President!"

"You will never be either," said Reed.

A Wager Spoiled

"Is this Schwartz, the butcher?"

"Yes."

"This is Mrs. Brown's residence. Will you please send up a thick steak by 11 o'clock?"

"You bet your sweet life I will."

"Do you know to whom you are speaking, sir?"

"Sure. You are Jenny, Mrs. Brown's cook."

"You are mistaken, sir. This is Mrs. Brown herself."

Well, in that case, we'll call the bet off, madam."

Brushing Up a Bit

"Don't you think," airily suggested the new partner, "that you ought to brush up a bit on your correspondence? Use big words; they lend dignity to your letters."

"Perhaps you're right," admitted the other, calmly. His next letter contained the following paragraph: "But, while eschewing mediocrity of expression through platitudinous phraseology, it behooves one to beware of exaggeration, and to be mindful that mendacity frustates its own aim and results in animadversion."

How He Lost His Girl

Yesterday everything had been happy and true love ran smoothly. To-night they sat in unbroken silence.

Harold could not fathom the cause. Had he not written a glowing poem in her honor?

"Mister Holt," said the girl, at length, "do you know that the feet of the Statue of Liberty, in New York Harbor, measure sixteen feet five inches?"

"So I have heard."

"The waist is thirty-five feet around," she continued. "The nose is four feet, six inches long; the mouth is a yard across. Did you know these facts?"

"Y-yes."

"Then will you explain why you state in your poem that I remind you of the Statue of Liberty?"

8,756 people died of gas last year; 41 inhaled it; 31 lighted it by touching a match to it; 8,684 stepped on it.

A Good Politician

Mark Hanna was walking through one of his steel mills one day, when he overheard a boy, one of his employes, saying:

"I wish I had old Hanna's money and he was in the poorhouse."

When Mark got back to his office he sent for the boy, and said to him:

"So you wish you had my money and I was in the poorhouse, eh? And if you had my money, what would you do with it?"

"Why, Senator," said the boy, "the first thing I'd do would be to get you out of the poorhouse."

Hanna sent a message to the foreman to keep an eye on the lad and advance him as rapidly as possible. "He's too good a politician to lose," said Mark.

Two Halves Equal One

Girl (at ticket window)—"We want one ticket to Springfield."

Ticket Agent—"But there are two of you."

Girl—"Well, we're half sisters. Add that up."

Two Bad Bumps

An absent-minded professor, in deep thought, left his cottage by the front gate and bumped into a cow that had strayed into the road. Oh, pardon me, madam!" said the professor, raising his hat.

Then he resumed his walk along the road, and was deep in thought again when he bumped against a lady coming in the opposite direction. "Get out the way, you brute!" he exclaimed.

Doctor—To be quite candid with you, your trouble is just laziness.

Patient—Yes, doctor, I know; but what is a scientific name for it? I've got to report to my wife.

The Reason

Two negroes were boasting about the merits and qualifications of their respective motor cars, both typically worn, shabby old wrecks.

One of them said: "Dey's 'jus' one reason why Ah can't run dis heah cah o' mine 100 miles a hounah."

"An' whut's dat reason?" asked the other.

"De distance am too long fo' de shawtness ob de time," he said.

What Some Insects Can Do

It's wonderful what some insects can do. A grasshopper can jump 200 times its own length!

"That's nothing; I once saw a wasp raise a 200-pound man three feet off the ground."

Oratory Goes Begging

"Ye're charged with bein' drunk and disorderly," snapped the magistrate. "Have ye anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?"

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," began the prisoner, in a flight of oratory. "I am not so debased as Poe, so profligate as Byron, so ungrateful as Keats, so intemperate as Burns, so timid as Tennyson, so vulgar as Shakespeare, so—"

"That'll do. That'll do," interrupted the magistrate. "Ninety days. You can finish the oration in jail."

Voice Over Telephone—"Hello. Hello. This is Judge Babington Peterson McFeatherson the Third. Will you please tell my son Cravenwood Rutherford McFeatherson the Fourth, that I would like to speak to him?"

Boy Student, (hanging up receiver)—"Hey, Mac, your old man wants to speak to you."

Here lies the bones of Wilbur Wump Who drove too fast and hit a bump, Wrapping his car around a stump. Remains are at the city dump— That is, the car, not Mr. Wump!

Legal Fee

The teacher heard a child crying and rushed out to the playground to find out the cause of the disturbance.

"What is the trouble," she asked of little Jimmie, who stood calmly by, eating an orange.

"Billy took Fred's orange," explained the witness.

"And where is the orange?" asked the teacher.

"Oh, I have that," replied Jimmie. "You see, I am the lawyer."

BIDS WANTED FOR CENTENNIAL

Bids to determine the location of the main unit of the Texas Centennial celebration will be opened at Austin, September 1. It is expected that at least six cities will make attractive offers for designation as the "Centennial City." A Houston group is considering a bond issue to finance the project. Fort Worth and Dallas are considering joint action to secure the site, which would be midway between the two cities. Austin and San Antonio are both trying to work up a proposal. There is some dissatisfaction over the law passed at the special session of the legislature authorizing the Centennial Commission to designate the city making the most substantial financial offer. It is felt by many that the site should be located in the area richest in historical romance and tradition in the State. Lesser celebrations are planned at points where some event of first importance occurred in the struggle of the pioneer Texans for liberty from Mexico. The commission has asked representatives of these spots to submit proposals by November 1.

BUILDING 50 FRAME HOUSES

Construction has started on 50 frame houses in the Wichita Gardens subsistence colony at Wichita Falls. The contract, which was awarded a few days ago, was the first in the United States for subsistence homesteads. W. A. Cannon is the project manager. The construction involved is $82,547. Workmen will be paid on a schedule issued by the United States Department of Interior, the wages comparing in most part with union scales.

LOOK OUT FOR $10 BILL COUNTERFEITS

Merchants and others in Southwestern Texas and Southeastern New Mexico have been warned against a bogus $10 bill which is being circulated. An ex-convict from Taylor county was arrested recently in an attempt to pass one of the bills; six other similar bills were found on his person. The bills, which are crude imitations, are said to be the work of a counterfeiting gang making Juarez, Mexico, headquarters.

LARGE CATTLE RANCH SOLD

The Reynolds Cattle Company of Fort Worth, a pioneer cattle and ranch corporation, several weeks ago sold to Col. T. G. Hendrick of Abilene and Odessa, for $245,808 cash, 20,766 acres of the Reynolds "X" holdings in Shackelford, Throckmorton and Haskell counties. The track in question, to the south of the main ranch, is known as the Wolf Creek pasture. Its acquisition makes nearly 45,000 acres in a single block purchased by Colonel Hendrick, who owns the Hendrick oil pool in Winkler county.

ONE GALLON could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories!

99 Million Foot-Pounds* Per Gallon

To lift 500 tons of solid steel 8 stories — there's a job calling for giant power! And giant power there is in the new powerful Sinclair H-C! A single gallon of this motor fuel actually could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories — if its potential energy could be fully utilized*.

Get a tankful of the new H-C for your car today. Try it on the steepest hills. Note its smooth, knockless power. In traffic, note its quicker starts and faster pick-up. And as for mileage, we suggest that you keep an accurate record for 30 days.

Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories.

*Foot-pound: The amount of work required to lift one pound one foot. Due to friction and other losses no machine yet built can convert into useful work all the potential energy in any gasoline. Friction alone steals millions of foot-pounds of work from every gallon of gasoline you buy. To keep friction loss in your engine at a minimum be sure to use either Sinclair Opaline or Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

Range Paralysis and Blindness

A good many years ago, while visiting a large poultry farm, the owner told me he had a great deal of loss of laying hens from "blindness." This form of blindness comes upon the birds gradually. First, the eye turns gray, losing the natural red color, soon total blindness in one or both eyes follow. Birds that die are often in fairly good condition, unless they linger too long after total blindness. In some cases the pullets lose the use of one wing or leg, thus the name of so-called range paralysis.

We believe their troubles or diseases are caused, to a large extent, from improper feeding or improperly balanced rations. A too high protein content—or unnatural feeding of too much so-called milk products, like dried milk or semi-salted buttermilk, and too little scratch grain, will at least increase these troubles if not actually cause them. We have been getting too far away from nature, feeding too much mash, too little scratch grain and granite grit. When pullets are six weeks old, place a hopper full of scratch grain and granite grit before them in addition to the mash. Post mortem examinations, often show the presence of tape-worm, leading us to believe they may cause the trouble. This may be true, but a more natural method of feeding will also eliminate much tape-worm trouble. In other words, heavy feeding of scratch grains and hard grit will eliminate much trouble from tape-worms. The past few years, many of us have been going the all-mash route, which bring on the troubles, range paralysis, blindness and tape-worms.

Some people make a general practice of disinfecting drinking water. This is a very poor practice, especially if a strong smelling disinfectant is used, because the chicks will not drink enough water, causing constipation with its string of ailments. In washing drinking utensils with disinfectant, use those with as little odor as possible and carefully rinse the pans after such washing. Scalding hot water is best for cleansing drinking utensils. Almost every day we get letters from people, saying they buy such and such tablets and put them in the chicks' drinking water, as a general disinfectant. We would like to discourage this practice. If the chick does not drink enough water, it will become constipated, which may cause so-called coccidiosis, bloody droppings, etc.

Poultry Outlook

So far the poultry business has got along without government aid. Not long ago I saw an editorial, calling attention to the fact that the lowly hen was not asking for any government relief or control. I sincerely hope the government will let us alone, so we can come out of this depression quicker and maintain our self-respect. All we ask is to be left strictly alone to manage our own business. You know what happens when the other fellow does your thinking and figuring. You have heard the old saying that figures don't lie, but that liars can figure. The moral is—do your own thinking and figuring. When politics are as corrupt and vasculating as at present, it is plain suicide for business to permit the government to run it. There is, of course, some dishonesty in business, but politics which runs the government is so seldom anything but graft and greed it appears silly for the one to regulate the other, unless we want to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

The outlook for the poultry business is very bright. There is only one cloud on the sky. Feed prices. Government control and regulation and taxing—of wheat and corn—in addition to the reducing the drought may do, may bring about high feed prices for a time. Eggs and poultry prices are holding up well in comparison with other agricultural products.

CCC WORKERS SEEK EDUCATION
Upwards of 5,000 CCC members in the 129 camps in the Eighth Corps Area, of which Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio is headquarters, are seeking a better education, according to a report from the office of L. W. Rodgers, the educational adviser for that area. More than 100 subjects are taught the men by 299 instructors, including official and technical personnel of the camps. The subjects range from music to public speaking, from mixing dough to handling high explosives, and from mining to aviation. Most of the CCC members are taking elementary and high school courses to supplement their early schooling. One report showed that 772 men in the corps area camps are taking college work. Members of some camps are able to attend classes at nearby schools through arrangements made by the CCC officials with school authorities.

OLD SCHOOL NOW A CANNERY
An abandoned school building at Winona, Smith county, has been converted into a cannery, established through the co-operation of the county relief board and A. & M. College extension service. Similar canneries are to be established at other points in the county. The purpose is to can farm produce on the halves for farmers, the portion of the canned goods retained by the canneries to be distributed to families who are on relief rolls during the winter.

INCREASED MEMBERSHIP SOUGHT
The Ex-Students Association of the West Texas State Teachers' College hopes to have an active membership of 1,000 by October 19. The outgoing president, T. H. McDonald of Pampa, and the new president, Supt. J. B. Speer of Morse, have completed plans for bringing the association to a new high level of effectiveness through enlisting the services of ex-students throughout the entire State. The campaign for new members will be carried on during the summer months.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Humphrey of that city.

Her feet go down to death; her steps take hold on hell. Prov. 5:5.

WARDS OF STATE WELL FED
Inmates of Texas institutions are given a more varied selection of food than appears on the tables of many ordinary households. Some of the items are delicacies that most families enjoy only when "company comes." During the next six months, beginning September 1, almost 17,000 pounds of assorted candies will be distributed at the schools for the blind and deaf, the Austin State school and the Confederate Women's Home. Bids have been asked on 112,000 pounds of navy beans, 22,500 pink and 217,000 pounds of pinto beans, besides 99,200 pounds of black-eyed peas. The Abilene State Hospital is the only institution that asked for chewing gum. It wants 125 boxes. Coffee is down for 166,995 pounds, while 3,833 pounds of tea will be ordered. Almost 32,000 pounds of assorted jellies are wanted, and 47,000 pounds of preserves. Bids are asked on 2,076 dozen three-fourths cans and 56 dozen six-ounce bottles of snuff. A total of 143 dozen corn cob pipes, 299,310 pounds of chewing tobacco and 1,193 gross sacks of smoking tobacco are included in the list. Sugar wants include 1,608 pounds of brown sugar, 791,250 pounds of cane and about 11,000 pounds of powdered sugar. Other major items include 201 dozen gallon cans of condensed chili, 4,268 pounds of cocoa, 102,470 pounds of raisins, 8,050 gallons of cooking oil, 1,384 gallons of salad oil, 10,195 pounds of peanut butter, 231,900 pounds of rice, 2,154,000 paper napkins and 1,009,015 paper cups.

NOTHING HAPPENED THIS TIME
Dr. W. E. Metzenthin, chairman of the athletic board at the University of Texas has returned to Germany for a visit after an absence of 46 years. And thereby hangs a tale. For 29 years in succession Dr. Metzenthin announced that he was going to spend his vacation at his old home in the fatherland. And 29 times something happened to prevent his making the trip. This year he said for the 30th time he was going home, but asked that nothing be said about it until he was upon the high seas, for fear something might happen again to spoil his plans. But nothing happened.

SPIDER MONKEY USES CAVE METHODS
Hans Nagel, zookeeper at Hermann Park, Houston, is at his wits end to know what to do with "Pete," a spider monkey, and one of his main attractions in the monkey cage. Pete has developed into a wife-beater. He has had two wives and has tried to kill both of them. He didn't like wife No. 1, and one day almost beat her to death. Mr. Nagel rescued No. 1 when she was more than half dead. A few days ago Pete got mad with wife No. 2 during a quarrel over some food, and nearly tore her to pieces. The zookeeper now has Pete in a cage all by himself.

DYING MAN CALLS FOR HIS DOG
The last words of a dying transient in a Stanton tourist camp were for his dog. The man whispered to an officer to bring his dog into the room. When the canine heard his master gasping and coughing, he broke loose from the officer and rushed to his master's bedside. The man, whose identity was unknown, was too near death to talk. He patted the dog on the head, looked into the animal's eyes and died with a smile on his face, unknown and unmourned except by his faithful pet.

TWO BEEF CLUBS FORMED
Hall community, in the western part of San Saba county, has two beef clubs which furnish fresh meat to the members each week. Each member furnishes one beef, and George Bagley and son do the butchering for all members of the two clubs. The butchering is held Fridays, the day on which women's home demonstration clubs of the community meet. Cowboy stew is served to both organizations.

Judging from the way Pietro's music has the children stepping, there's nothing wrong with his tunes. But all is not well in this picture—not with the seventeen or more errors the artist has made. Can you see all of them?

DEAR FRIENDS:
Do you know anyone who doesn't like to get a nice, friendly, cheerful letter? Oh! they are so welcome. There is something so thrilling about a letter addressed to one's self. With the hundreds of letters I receive I must confess there is something that makes me thrill with anticipation every time I go to the mail box. I love to see the many letters addressed to me. The day I do not receive a letter is somehow lacking in real joy. That is how I know how drab and dreary must be the days of my Shut-In friends. I have so many things to fill in my life. So much happiness. So many interests. And they have so little. How big and fine a letter must seem to them. How it must breathe of the life they long to share. But those four walls constitute all there is of life for them. If we would stop and think of the great happiness we could give for so little, how much more we would all do.

I am very proud of the names that have been sent in on the contest. I cannot tell at this time how it is going to go. But I know we are going to be very proud of our membership after the contest is all over. I want to thank all who took part. I wish everyone could win a prize, but that wouldn't be a contest. Any way, those who don't win can be happy in knowing that they helped in a great cause. I don't like to close the Shut-In list because there are so many that need help and cheer along the way.

Watch for the announcement of winners of the contest in the August issue of the page. I hope all my boys and girls are enjoying their vacation. I love to have my daughter home, for she helps me so much. I enjoy the company of my children more than anyone else in the world. Do you try to make YOUR mother feel so happy when you are home? I hope you do. If you haven't, try it, and see what pleasure you derive from it. In our family each one tries to do their part, and in this way all have time for fun and play.

Here is wishing you all happiness and health, the greatest blessings in life.

With love,
(Signed) AUNT MARY.

SUNSHINE CLUB NEWS
There are so many interesting letters this month. I am sure all of you will agree with me that the Sunshine Club affords a fine opportunity for boys and girls (young and old) to do the biggest and best thing in life—share their love and life with others.

Miss Ruth Miller, Tyrone, Okla., writes such an interesting letter. We are sorry to note that she had the measles in May. They made her quite sick. I know it isn't any fun having measles, whooping cough or any other disease. None of us like to have an illness. We are glad she is well, and hope for her continued good health. Ruth was glad when her turn came to write Nell Ball, Birmingham, England, as her father's people came from England, and she feels very close to that country.

Mrs. Ellean Vedder, Spokane, Wash., is glad to be a member of the club, and we are pleased to have her. I am sure she will be of great help and a comfort to the Shut-Ins, and prove an example to others who should belong to the club.

Mary Colene Kennedy, Frederick, Okla., is a new member we welcome with pleasure. There is a member of our club I believe to be a very fine young man who is trying to do a great work for the Lord; and trying to make the world a better place in which to live. While young in years he has the mentality and ability of one much older. He is Robert W. Fromcke, 422 North Ninth Street, Clinton, Okla. If any member of the club is interested in learning more about the Bible, and are earnest and sincere in this desire, Robert can be of great help to them. Write him, and tell him of your needs. I hope to start a series of articles soon written by him about the Bible. Robert is a wonderful student, and we are proud to have him in the club.

Aunt Agnes Pick, Berkeley, Calif., writes: "I am praying your dear mother is better. I enjoy the club very much and get letters as usual. I had a long letter from Aunt Susan and one from Mrs. Borcharding, Lucy Newman and Mrs. B. Elstrom and others. I send love and greeting to all the Shut-Ins and members." Thank you for the book and information on diet, Aunt Agnes. I am sure that we can make more than one use of them. Mother is better. I expect her to be with us soon.

Romilda Freeman, Ralls, Texas, is joining the club this month. She is a little girl who lives on a farm, and derives much happiness from her work and play. We welcome her most cordially.

Mrs. M. C. Dancan, Fair, Texas, writes that she "had a letter from Mrs. Mary Squires and her son had died the first of May leaving a wife and two or three children. I do love the Shut-In Club. My father, mother and husband are dead. I miss them so much, and I hope some day to meet them in heaven. I live with a son who has a large family." Don't forget to write Mrs. Dancan.

You all remember our dear little bride, Mrs. Thomas Stephens, Bellevue, Texas. She has been married some few months. Here is a sweet letter from her: "We are having some real summer weather and need rain so badly. I hear so many people complaining about needing rain, but I always stop and think God knows what is best. I am trying to get new members. Hope your mother is better. So sad about our dear club member, Aunt Emma, but she paid a debt that we all must pay, and I am sure that she is far better off than we are. Perhaps she is looking down from her throne in heaven, and smiles to think of the time when we shall meet her up there. I send deepest sympathy to her loving and kind daughter who helped her to be cheerful, and she was always so faithful to her. I know I have a nice garden and pretty chickens. I hope Mrs. Sallie Martin is better by now. I love Aunt Susan, and wish I might meet her personally. Lots of love to all the club and dear Aunt Mary. I think it would be nice if you would have your picture put in the club news so all of us might have one."

Thanks for the letter, dear friend. I did have my picture on this page some two or three years ago. Someday we may print it again. Thank you, dear, for wanting it.

Here is good news. Lucille E. Welch, Gatesville, Texas, writes: "I am well now, and do most anything I like. So I guess you better take me off the Shut-In list. I surely have enjoyed the many letters I received. I think the club is just grand. I hope I shall be able to cheer others as I have been cheered. May God bless you in the work you are doing, is my prayer."

Aunt Mary Squires, Iredell, Texas, writes us a very sad letter. The loss of Mrs. Squires' son was spoken of by Mrs. Dancan. Mrs. Squires writes that she is heavily burdened, and asks for the prayers of the club members. Mrs. Squires is a strong believer, and has great faith in prayer. Daily she remembers us in her prayers, and so, in her sorrow and bereavement, we shall remember her. Such faith as hers must surely be rewarded.

Ira Jean Lewis, Valley View, Texas, writes that in joining the club it is a great pleasure. "I like the page of the Sunshine Club best." Thank you, Ira Jean. We welcome you.

One of the most remarkable things about our little club is how the web of happiness is woven so far and into so many corners. This month we add the State of Kansas to our growing list. We find the name of Verona Pearl Stark, Soldier, Kansas, as a new name on our list. We are thankful to Beulah Lamb, Hazel, Ky., for getting Verona as a member. From Verona's description, I am sure she will make us a wonderful member. We welcome her with all our hearts.

Virgie Murray, Kalarzy, Texas, is another new member. We extend the hand of fellowship and love.

Mary Kofner, Kaufman, Texas, writes that she wants to join the happy band of boys and girls that belong to the Shut-In Club. We are happy to have Mary as a member.

Marion Thurmond, Alto, Texas, is the first member to send in a list of names for the contest. It is a good one, too, and I am hoping that by the time you read this that our club will have more than doubled its membership. We can do it easily if we just try. Did YOU try?

Membership in the Sunshine Club

We need more sunbeams to send sunshine into the world. We need less of shadow and more of sun. There are darkened corners you never guessed were in this world. This little club is for the purpose of sending sunshine in the form of letters, cards, magazine and newspaper clippings or anything that will not cost over 10 cents. We do not give material aid, but try to make life's burden easier to bear by letting those around us know we love them and are trying to tread the paths the saints have trod before. There are no dues, fees or assessments now or at anytime. The membership is free to all readers of this page (young and old). Simply fill in the membership card on which will appear your number. Each month on this page is printed the names and addresses of the Shut-Ins, and before each one are the numbers of the persons, who are to write to that Shut-In for that month. It is so simple and easy. Yet you will be doing a great and good work for the ones less fortunate than you. Get busy. Fill in the coupon. Write plainly, and mail it NOW to Aunt Mary, Route 5, Box 179-B, Fort Worth, Texas.

Book News
On the shelves of the bookstore and public libraries there are so many volumes that are breaking the high morals and standards of our children, that it is small wonder that our daily newspapers are filled with stories of "child bandits." Reading has such an influence on our children we should be as careful of the character of books or articles they have as we are of the food they eat. Our children's minds and souls are vastly more important than their bodies, and we should guide all three in the paths of right and strength.

"Adventures of Joe and Judy," (Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, Calif.), by Mary Hunter Moore, are the true stories of two children that will interest children, and teach wonderful lessons. The cost is small, only 10 cents, plus postage.

Where one would like a little more expensive book as a gift or for one's own library, you should have "Really True," (Pacific Press Association), by Adelaide Bee Evans. The author tells, by forty-two stories and poems, real experience of boys and girls in this and other lands. They are inter-

SETS TYPE IN THREE LANGUAGES

A typesetter at the University of Texas Press, R. G. Haas, has the distinction of being able to set type in three languages, English, Spanish and German, with equal rapidity and accuracy. Born in Texas of German parents, Mr. Haas learned to speak and write German. Because of close association with the Mexicans in Texas, he learned Spanish, and at the public schools he learned English. When Mr. Haas started out in the printing trade at the age of 14 he learned to set type in all three languages.

FIREMEN SELECT EL PASO

El Paso was selected as the 1935 convention city by the Texas State Firemen and Fire Marshals' Association at its recent meeting at Mineral Wells, when D. B. Clark of Beaumont, was named president. Schulenberg won the four-man race for the Liberty cup, connecting nozzle and pumper, and laying 250 feet of hose, in 16 2/5 seconds. For the third consecutive year the San Marcos department won the one-man race, running 50 feet, and connecting pumper and nozzle in 20 2/5 seconds. That was done by Roy Autrey.

BRONZE PLATE FOR BONNIE'S GRAVE

A bronze plate made in a Fort Worth foundry is to mark the grave of Bonnie Parker, who was ambushed and killed with Clyde Barrow on a country road near Arcadia, La., by former Texas Rangers and other officers. The marker will close the last chapter in the young woman's hectic career. The plate will bear the following verse, selected by Bonnie's mother:

BONNIE PARKER
(Oct. 1, 1910—May 23, 1934)
As the flowers are all made sweeter
By the sunshine and the dew,
So this old world is made brighter
By the lives of folks like you.

EXPERT SAFE OPENER WANTED

In the rear of the postoffice at Groveton is an old safe that has not been opened since the day its owner died 20 years ago. The owner was a connoisseur of fine whisks, and was said to have kept his bottles in the safe. Since his death many have tried to open it by twisting the rusty dial, but to no avail. They have hesitated to "blow" it for fear the suspected bottles might be broken.

DOG HAS 18 PUPPIES

Corporal W. P. Barnhill at Camp Bullis, San Antonio, has a registered setter, named "Red," recently gave birth to 18 healthy puppies. As far as known, this is a record puppy litter for a Texas canine.

Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase. Prov. 3:9.

What causes WRINKLES?

MRS. GEORGE MASON, JR., gives her exquisite skin Pond's Two-Skin care.

The Answer lies in the Strange Fact that every Human Being has TWO SKINS

DO YOU KNOW that wrinkles start in your Under Skin before they show in your Outer Skin? When the tiny glands in your Under Skin fail to pour out necessary beauty oils, this skin shrinks. The Outer Skin must then form folds and creases to fit the Under Skin.

Use Oil Cream for the Under Skin—To check these wrinkles you must use an oil cream that sinks way down. Pond's Cold Cream does this. It cleanses thoroughly and brings the starving tissues just the oils they need. Lines and creases smooth out magically.

The Outer Skin needs a Greaseless Cream—This skin is very different. It contains active moisture cells to counteract dryness. Exposure extracts this moisture, then dryness and coarseness result. Pond's Vanishing Cream contains a wonderful substance which checks this loss of moisture—actually restores it—removes roughness, chapping, instantly. Try it as a powder base. You will be amazed at the length of time your make-up stays on—in perfect condition.

Try this Simple TWO-SKIN Treatment Daily

1. Every night cleanse and firm your Under Skin with Pond's Cold Cream. Wipe off—repeat, patting vigorously.
2. Smooth your Outer Skin with Pond's Vanishing Cream. Leave it on all night. Roughness vanishes by morning.
3. Every morning and during the day, another Cold Cream cleansing. Then Pond's Vanishing Cream. How clear, natural your make-up looks.

Begin this simple two-skin treatment at once. See how soft and smooth Pond's famous Two Creams will make your own skin. How fine textured and radiantly fresh!

RELICS SHOWN AT BRECKENRIDGE

Breckenridge held a pioneer reunion the third week in June. A feature of the affair was the display of relics in the show windows of many of the stores. In one store was a spinning wheel said to be 150 years old, belonging to the family of Uncle Jesse Rogers, among the first settlers of Young county. There was a copy of the Manila Morning Times, dated Friday morning, May 21, 1901, announcing the capture of Aguinaldo, and another newspaper published at Kingston, Ulster county, The Ulster County Gazette, dated 1810. There was a Confederate $100 bill and a Bible 110 years old, written in Welch and brought to America by relatives of Mrs. W. B. Griffith of Breckenridge. Properly labeled was a badge worn by a Mexican war veteran to a convention in Fort Worth, dated November 8, 9 and 10, 1897. Also exhibited was a violin said to be 309 years old, made by La Mode, France, in 1625, and a Stradivarius bearing the inscription "Anno 1713." There was a broad axe 125 years old and a branding iron 63 years old registered in three counties adjacent to Stephens county. Also displayed was a gun found near the grave of George Hazelwood who was killed by an Indian in 1868, and a dinner pot 127 years old.

MULE EATS LITTLE CHICKENS

Perry Hale, a farmer living near Estelline, owns a mule that eats little chickens. When a hen with a brood goes into the barnyard the mule will chase the chicks until he knocks one or more of them down with either nose or hoof, and then swallows them almost whole.

Fools make a mock at sin. Prov. 14:9.

MUST LAY OUT "LOST CITY" TOWNSITE

Embraced within the present boundry of Rusk's prospective new oil field in East Texas, once flourished a town known as New Birmingham. It was the product of a boom connected with the idea that iron in large quantities would be converted into steel in that section, and that in time the town would rival Birmingham, Ala. The boom faded and the Texas Birmingham long since has been spoken of as a "lost city," disappearing years ago. Surveyors, in examining the county records to be sure of land titles in the new oil field, discovered that the region was the site of the once flourishing town of New Birmingham. Now the town site must be laid out again and all the original owners of the various blocks found in order that litigation over titles will not arise after oil wells may have been completed in the district.

JUDGE AGAINST ALIMONY ROW

Judge T. A. Work of Dallas does not want an "alimony row" in the Dallas county jail. A few days ago a divorcee asked him to jail her former husband for failure to comply with an order to pay alimony upon stated occasions. Instead of committing the man to jail, the judge reduced the alimony payments from $25 to $10 per week, with the remark: "A man can't very well earn money if he is locked up."

TAGS SHOW GROWTH OF FISH

Last September J. R. Ramsey tagged two bass that he placed in Lake Eddleman at Graham. Recently these fish were caught by O. G. Kervov and Frank Grimes, who returned the tags to Mr. Ramsey. One of the bass, that measured 7 1/4 inches last fall, had grown to 12 inches when caught. The other bass, eight inches long when placed in the lake in September, had grown to 14 inches when caught.

TREASURE HUNTERS KILL SNAKES

Three treasure hunters at Fish Rock Lake, near Houston, have been kept busy killing snakes as they sink a shaft in their hunt for gold—about $9,000,000 worth of it—supposed to be buried in the lake years ago by a party of Mexicans. The hunters had killed 25 copperheads when the shaft was no more than 10 feet deep.

MAKE THESE MODELS AT HOME

Patterns 1532 and 1818

These are very nice things to be said about the clothes both the ladies above are wearing, but we shall begin with the one at the left because—well, because that's the way to begin. We are not dead certain what her gown is made of, it might be either cotton or silk, but about the fact that it is a very good looking gown, there can be no two opinions—the combined front panel and girde settle that once for all. But just to make certainty doubly sure we present in evidence those divine little sleeves and the fetching bow at the back. Charming in prints and lovely in monotoes.

Turning our attention now to the lady at the right, we would first remark that while she looks slender, she really tips the scales a lot more than you'd think. It is the frock that misleads you—it is just that kind of a frock! Every line in it is doing its level best to create the illusion of sylph-like slinness—and their combined efforts are successful beyond the highest hopes of the gown's wearer. Even the bands which trim its very edges are graduated on the lap of the skirt with telling effect. A frock, like the first, that is equally attractive in silks or cottons.

Pattern 1532 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 3/8 yards 36-inch fabric.

Pattern 1818 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 5/8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

THE STORY OF TEA

Among the popular beverages of today none has as interesting a history as tea. When it first came into use is not recorded in history.

In 805 A. D., the Chinese tea plant was introduced in Japan, despite the fact that Japan had a native bush. The two varieties were crossed and the blend soon became a national beverage in the flowery kingdom. For hundreds of years tea drinking has been popular at social affairs and business meetings in Japan.

In 1610 A. D., the Dutch brought the first tea to Europe, and about that time to England. About 1650 it was brought to America. In 1773 occurred the famous "Boston Tea Party." While not exactly a "Social event," it was an exciting incident, one that played an important part in bringing about the revolutionary war.

In the Orient early methods of preparing tea were vastly different from those in this country. The leaves were steamed, crushed in a mortar, made into a cake and boiled with rice, ginger, salt, orange peel, spices, milk and sometimes onions.

Today the generally accepted way to brew excellent tea is to use an earthen teapot, scald with boiling water, using one teaspoon of tea to each cup of vigorously boiling water (one teaspoon of tea should be added for the pot). Let the tea stand for about three minutes, or less time if strong tea is not desired. Serve with lemon or sugar to suit the taste. For iced tea, use twice the quantity of leaves.

The preparing of tea leaves for market is so interesting we can not pass it without a few brief words. The quantity of tea is better understood when methods of growing and preparing are understood.

The location of the tea garden is most important. The best tea is grown high in the mountains of India, Ceylon, Java, Sumatra, Africa, Japan and the Island of Formosa. It is known as "high grown," and makes the most delicious teas. The bush, after transplanting, will not yield tea leaves for from three to five years, and then only the young shoots of the bush to the extent of two leaves and a bud are used for the highest grade. Cheaper teas are made from the third, fourth, fifth and lesser leaves. They are more coarse than the first tender shoots.

All tea leaves are green when plucked. It is through the process of preparation that the black and green teas are produced.

The first operation after plucking is withering. The leaves are spread out on racks and dry air passed over them.

The next step is rolling. This breaks the juice cells of the leaves.

Then comes "fermentation," a purely natural process caused by the rolling, in order to produce teas of bright color and aroma. The leaves are now put through a process known as "firing." The object is to arrest the fermentation, to take away all moisture without eliminating the oil and other aromatic properties. Each leaf should come from this process crisp and dry.

The warm tea leaf is finally packed in lead or aluminum lined wooden cases for shipment to all parts of the world.

To "know" about our foods and drinks is one of the most important steps to qualify as an efficient mother or competent housekeeper.

The term "Orange Pekoe" is generally misunderstood. It is incorrectly used to mean high quality. In reality it denotes the size of the leaf, and has nothing to do with the quality. The growing and curing determine the quality.

Look in the recipe department for good and unusual recipes for tea.

POINTS OF SUCCESSFUL CANNING

Before storing your fruits and vegetables, check them against the following reasons for spoilage. An ounce of prevention will save many a pound of food.

1. Incomplete sterilization.
2. Food, seeds, grease or juices lodged between lid and jar.
3. If Economy Jar. Clamp too tight, or several clamps used, or clamp too loose.
4. In oven canning. Oven regulator out of adjustment or incorrect degree of heat.
5. Jars nicked or cracked from previous use.
6. If self-sealing jars are used. Bands screwed down too loosely before processing.

Fruit Punch

- 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1 cup orange juice
 - 1 quart water
 - Grated rind 1/2 orange
 - 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
 - 1/2 cup sugar (more if desired)
- Cook the sugar and water for 3 minutes. cool and add the following combination of ingredients:

- 1 quart tea (double strength)
- 1/2 cup Maraschino cherries, cut fine.

No. 2—For 40 Persons

- 3 lemons (juice only)
 - 6 oranges (juice only)
 - 1 cup grated pineapple
 - 2 cups strawberry syrup
 - 2 cups freshly made tea
 - 1 cup Maraschino cherries
 - 2 1/2 cups sugar
 - 1 1/2 cups water
 - 1 quart carbonated water
 - 1 gallon ice water.
- Boil sugar and water 5 minutes. Cool and add tea, fruit juices, syrup and pineapple. Let stand one hour, then strain. Add ice water and pour over large piece of ice. Then add carbonated water and cherries.

Pear Butter

Wash pears. Do not peel. Slice. Cook until very soft. Press through colander. To each cup pulp add 1/2 cup sugar. (Spices may be added if desired). Cook to a paste, stirring frequently to prevent burning. It is sometimes a good plan to do the cooking in an oven, for then it is not necessary to stir so often. Pour into jars (being careful to keep butter very hot) and then seal.

Apple Jelly

Apple jelly may be made from parings and cores and tart apples used in making apple sauce or other preparations. Discard all faulty parts. Cover well with water and cook until fruit is quite done. Strain twice. Add 1 cup sugar to 1 cup of boiling juice. When the mixture will web a fork, skim and pour into hot jelly glasses.

Just Right

Those who know their iced tea want a full-bodied flavor that melting ice won't destroy—and a tea that requires no over-brewing to get it. That means a fine quality tea to begin with. Next time, try

MAIL SERVICE IS PRAISED

Another tribute to Uncle Sam's mail service is given by A. B. Eddleman of Graham, who recently received a card from a friend enroute to Chicago who had neglected to address it. The card has no writing on the address side and only a few short sentences on the reverse side. It was signed "James Porter." Postmaster J. R. Ramsey picked up the card expecting to find an address on it, but could find no clue as to whom it was written other than he knew Mr. Porter to be Mr. Eddleman's partner in a saddlery, and reasoned that Mr. Porter had meant it for his associate.

The card is postmarked Sicele, Ill., but was written from Vandalia. Mr. Eddleman identified Mr. Porter's handwriting, but has no clue as to how the card could have come to Graham without his name or address on it.

MUCH WOOL CONCENTRATED

The wool concentration points in Texas had about 39,000,000 pounds of free eight and 12 months wools when the season closed in June. There has been shipped out or committed to be shipped out more than 10,000,000 pounds, most of it being 12 months clip on consignment. Of the consigned wools about 7,500,000 pounds are under government mortgage and the remainder free. The 1934 clip is about 20,000,000 pounds less than in 1933, due to light shearing, death losses and the drought. Kerrville has more than 1,000,000 pounds of mohair. Total accumulation of wool and mohair in the State unshipped is estimated at more than 48,400,000 pounds.

ECLIPSE OF MOON ON JULY 26

Texans will be able to see a partial eclipse of the moon on July 26. It will have a magnitude of about 67 per cent; that is, 67 per cent of the moon's diameter will be covered by the earth's shadow at maximum. The beginning will be visible in the Western part of North and South America and the Pacific Ocean. The ending will be visible in the extreme North-western part of North America and the Pacific Ocean. The moon will enter the earth's umbral shadow at 2:54 a. m., Pacific time, and will set eclipsed.

COTTON BURR ASH SHIPPED

Cotton burr ash—a fertilizer used in tobacco fields—may form a profitable new product for some sections of Texas. Twenty-two carloads have been shipped from Post City to tobacco manufacturers in Connecticut, Georgia and Florida, where it is being spread over tobacco fields.

NEW FLAG POLE FOR A. & M.

Through co-operation of the 1934 graduating class and the landscape art department, a new flag staff from which the State flag will fly, is to be erected on A. & M. campus in front of the new administration building at the east entrance to the college grounds. The five panel base for the pole, resting upon a huge five-pointed Texas star as a sub-base, will be emblematic of the agricultural and mechanical instruction carried on at the college and of the student body. The base alone will be 12 feet high. Prof. F. W. Hensel, head of the landscape art department, will supervise the erection of the pole.

LUMBER INDUSTRY SLOWS UP

The lumber industry continues to reflect the low ebb of building construction. Reports from the Southern Pine Association show an average weekly production of 205,575 board feet per unit, a decline of 5.3 per cent from April, and 4.1 from May, 1933. Average weekly shipments per unit were 217,459 board feet, an increase of 8 per cent over April, but a drop of 24 per cent from May, 1933. Unfilled orders per unit totaled 723,807 board feet, down 7.3 per cent from April and 10.4 per cent from May, 1933.

35 BAPTIZED IN RIVER

Thirty-five persons were baptized recently in the North Concho river between two bridges in the business section of San Angelo in one of the most unusual ceremonies of its kind ever held in that city. The candidates joined hands and marched into the river in single file. They were baptized by Rev. Ralph Grant, pastor of the Park Heights Baptist Church.

ANOTHER CAVERN DISCOVERED

A large cavern has been discovered on the J. B. Harrell ranch, near Chapel, 15 miles southeast of San Saba. It was found by Ben Harrell, a youth, who already has explored four or five large rooms, with evidence of other rooms extending far under ground.

In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Prov. 3:6.

Here in America, 2/3 of all women ask for Morton's because—
